

Curtis Pleads Not Guilty To Indictment In Hoax Negotiations

FACES TRIAL ON JUNE 27 IN KIDNAP CASE

"Negotiator" Remanded to Jail to Await Trial in New Jersey

Flemington, N. J. (AP) — John Hughes Curtis entered a plea of not guilty today to an indictment charging him with hindering capture of the kidnap-murderers of the Lindbergh baby. Trial was set for June 27 as soon as the plea was entered.

Curtis, who pleaded not guilty despite his own confession to police, entered court dressed in a dark blue suit. He seemed entirely unconcerned and there was a faint smile on his face as he looked directly at the judge. He waived reading of the indictment and was remanded to jail in lieu of bail.

As soon as the brief proceedings were over Curtis was told that he was remanded to jail to await trial. He nodded his head "yes," he said, speaking directly to the judge.

Although he did not otherwise show any emotion, Curtis' ruddy complexion paled slightly as he stood before the bar of justice.

But he seemed entirely composed as he walked out of the courtroom, past the judge's bench, on his way back to jail.

Curtis was in the courtroom less than three minutes.

The indictment, reading of which, as a preliminary to his plea, he waived, charged that he willfully gave false information "for the purpose of preventing and hindering" arrest of the kidnapers.

It recited that he perpetrated his hoax of imaginary negotiations for return of the murdered baby "with false promises and threats." This was understood, however, to be merely customary legal phraseology and not to indicate any belief that Curtis had actually carried out his hoax by physical force and threats rather than by deceit.

Today's court proceedings were conducted in almost a whisper. The only words Curtis himself uttered during the time he was in the courtroom were comprised in his statement of thanks to the judge.

When Curtis first took his place before the bench the prosecutor rose to read the indictment, but defense counsel waived this formality for their client.

Then Judge Adam O. Robbins indicated to Curtis' local attorney who had said "We plead not guilty."

"I move that the prisoner be remanded to jail until bail is provided," the prosecutor said.

The defense lawyer nodded in acquiescence, despite rumors that there would be an attempt to have the bail of $10,000 lowered. Judge Robbins granted the prosecution motion and then Curtis spoke for the first time to the judge.

Only about 100 persons were in the courtroom during the brief proceedings and all was orderly, the judge having warned in advance that no demonstration of any kind would be tolerated.

The room was quickly cleared after Curtis left and the case seemed to have quickly settled back into quiet until the trial opens on June 27.

GIRL MET DEATH IN ACCIDENTAL CRASH

Inquest Conducted at Calumet-co Courthouse Friday Afternoon

Miss Ruth Hove, 16, Chilton high school junior, died in an accidental collision, a coroner's jury decided at an inquest conducted at the Calumet-co courthouse at Chilton Friday afternoon. The jury was composed of Peter and Joseph Juchem, Harvey and Gustave Berzheim, Gustave Fepke and Vincent Reinkobes.

The girl was instantly killed at 1:30 Friday morning when the automobile in which she was riding with Jerome Miller, 18, high school senior, collided with another machine driven by Lester Blomien, also of Chilton, on Highway 57, one and one-half miles north of Chilton.

Miss Hove and Miller were returning from a dance at Potter when their car crashed into the rear of Blomien's machine, which was parked on the right side of the road. There was a heavy fog. The Miller car turned over into a ditch after the crash, and the girl was thrown through the window on the right side of the driver's seat. Glass from the broken window severed the jugular vein in the girl's neck. Miller received slight lacerations and bruises.

Blomien and his companion, Elmer Endres, Jerome Short, Edward Gritter and Robert Baer, all students at Chilton high school, also returning from the Potter party, had stopped at the roadside.

Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Monday morning at St. Mary church at Hilbert. Burial will be in the Hilbert cemetery.

The flame-colored monoplane of Stanislaus Hausner, Newark, N. Y. With Warsaw as his goal, Hausner hoped to make the 4350-mile air voyage in one hop.

PERRY HITS AT OPPONENTS TO HIS CANDIDACY

Charges "Vicious Propaganda" and Denounces Draft Movement

Milwaukee (AP) — On the eve of next week's conservative Republican convention at Madison, Charles B. Perry, speaker of the assembly and announced candidate for governor, in a statement today said his candidacy was the subject of "vicious propaganda" and denounced efforts to draft a candidate for the nomination.

"It has been widely heralded," Mr. Perry said, "that I became a candidate to prevent the nomination of one man who has publicly refused to be a candidate, and that I became a candidate to insure the nomination of the present executive."

"I think I am reliably informed of the source of all that propaganda, but let that pass, for it and all similar attempts to belittle my candidacy are falsehoods and known to be such by those who have given circulation to them."

"At the time when my candidacy was announced, I do not recall that any other for the office of governor had been made."

While not mentioning names, Mr. Perry in his statement intimated strongly that unfair methods had been used by prominent conservatives to force former Gov. Walter J. Kohler again to become a candidate.

"The voluntary group known as the state Republican committee," he said, "has issued a call for a Republican conference for the purpose, among others, expressed in its call, of recommending and endorsing candidates for state offices."

Hits At Elimination

"While there may be some question as to whether or not, under the rules of its voluntary association, it was the duty of its officers, or any officers as such, to attempt to eliminate all the candidates for governor, except one, it will hardly be denied that a dominating will in that organization assumed that privilege."

"One of its officers has frankly stated that the state Republican committee had employed every agency of the organization to persuade a particular candidate for governor."

"Notwithstanding such persuasion, the citizens thus solicited, in what will be conceded to be a carefully worded letter, since made public, has declared that he should not be a candidate."

"Apparently inspired by some of those connected with the state Republican committee, there is now being spread a 'draft' propaganda for the citizen who refused to be a candidate has been quite conclusively and publicly made known to Wisconsin people."

"The call for the Madison conference expressly declares:

"The name of no person shall be submitted for endorsement to this conference, unless such person shall first agree to support those persons as candidates for public office endorsed by this convention."

"Is it conceivable that with such a reservation in its call, the state Republican committee can be willing to stultify itself and also the one who had so decisively refused to be a candidate, by ignoring the reservation of its call?"

Plead For Liberation Of Scientist From Jail Cell

Geneva, Ill. (AP) — The scientific world is wondering whether it is going to lose a genius by imprisonment or whether he is to remain free to help discover the secret of the heavens.

John E. Mellish, 46, has won renown in scientific fields by making telescopes for observatories all over the world during six years' residence in St. Charles.

But whether his work can go on remains a question, for Mellish is awaiting trial on a charge preferred by his wife, Jessie—a charge which means a possible sentence of 20 years if he is convicted.

Mellish has been a prisoner in the Geneva jail for nine months since he attacked a 15-year-old girl. Scientists from seven universities are reported to have appealed to the county authorities to exercise mercy.

"There seems little doubt that the man is a genius," said Circuit Judge John C. Newhall. "States Attorney George Carberry and I have received a dozen letters from scientists attesting his accomplishments. We don't know what to do with him."

The astronomer's wife filed suit for a divorce, charging cruelty. They were married after she inserted an advertisement in a newspaper in 1915 placing herself "in the market for a perfect husband."

He then began building telescopes and daily he has left his jail cell unescorted for his laboratory.

His former home was a farm near Cottage Grove, Wis. Mrs. Mellish formerly resided at Glencoe, Ill.

SPECIAL SERVICES FOR CATHOLICS TO CELEBRATE FEAST

Octave of Feast of Sacred Heart Being Observed in Churches

The octave of the feast of the Sacred Heart is being observed in all Catholic churches of the city, in response to the request of Bishop P. Rhode, who asked that special prayers, services and the exposition of the Blessed Sacrament be held during the octave in keeping with the wish of Pope Pius XI, expressed in his recent encyclical.

The people are to turn to God in this moment of world unrest and discouragement, and to forget their worldliness and find a spirituality and a dependence upon God for aid in overcoming individual, community and world disorder.

Sacred Heart church, under the patronage of the Sacred Heart, held a novena in preparation for the feast of the Sacred Heart, which will be celebrated Sunday morning. There will be masses at 6 o'clock, 7:30, and a children's mass at 9 o'clock. Solemn high mass will be held at 7:30, with exposition of the Blessed Sacrament, solemn consecration of the parishioners to the Sacred Heart, the litany of the Sacred Heart, and benediction. The novena, which started on the feast of Corpus Christi, ended Friday evening.

At St. Mary church the octave of prayer started with a mass at 8 o'clock Friday morning. Benediction with the Blessed Sacrament and Sacred Heart devotion at 7:30 every evening, and at St. Theresa church there will be exposition of the Blessed Sacrament every morning, with benediction after the mass. Next Friday the exposition and benediction will be held in the evening.

SLIGHT INCREASE IN ADVERTISING HELD OPTIMISTIC FACTOR

Expert Thinks It Presages Gradual General Improvement in U. S.

New York (AP) — Samuel H. Weston, expert on newspaper operation, said today that for the first time since 1929 advertising had shown a slight upward trend, and he expressed the opinion that this was a hopeful sign for forthcoming general improvement.

One reason expressed for this outlook was that in April classified advertising volume started distinctly upwards as compared with the first two months of the year.

"This has been followed in a less degree by total advertising," he said, "if this index works in the future as it has in the past, it indicates there will be a slow but steady increase in total advertising volume."

It was Mr. Weston's belief that in March, "bottom" appeared to have been reached and that advertising underwent a flattening out process early in April, starting on an upward movement before the close of the month.

Statistics compiled by Weston, who has spent more than half a century with newspapers, showed an increase of 43-100ths per cent in advertising in April over the preceding month.

While the percentage of increase was small, the statistician cited it as significant in view of the fact that in the preceding months, when volume is increased because of sales and special offers, a slump in advertising is followed by a slump in advertising.

As the result of the small increase, Weston looked for an improvement in general trade conditions within the next six weeks to 60 days. Newspaper advertising dropped off in approximately that many days before the crash of 1929.

"In July and August of 1929," Weston recalled, "certain classifications of advertising which had been steadily increasing in volume showed decreases. By September the total volume of advertising based on commercial sales was definitely on the decline."

Weston believed the pick up in advertising presaged an improvement in general conditions just as the decline of 1929 was a forerunner of the depression.

If total advertising maintains its present rate of percentage increase the volume for this year will be definitely above the 1918 total and slightly below the figures for 1919, as well as closely approximating 1931, Weston said.

The total volume of advertising in 1918 was $43,205,565 lines. In the following year the lineage totaled 1,028,047,134 lines, or slightly more than 17,000,000 lines above the 1918 figure.

What! No Miracles?

Now that nearly everybody realizes that there is not going to be any miraculous up-swing in business or industry or investment values, we can get down to the simple problem of getting ahead financially with a lot clearer outlook toward success. A lot of false standards and ideas have been ironed out. We are down to earth.

For quite a while now, those who have been looking for better investments than Building and Loan have been finding a lot of disappointments, while those who have gone steadfastly ahead with their saving and investment programs with our association have been enjoying the experience of watching their funds, secure from loss, growing steadily through the addition of compound dividends at a rate of yield that is, to say the least, highly satisfactory.

Our shares may be purchased in easy, monthly payments or in multiples of $100.00.

REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS MEET IN BASEBALL BATTLE

Washington (AP) — First blood is drawn today in the great quadrennial battle between Republicans and Democrats, but this preliminary skirmish is on the baseball diamond.

With Gene Tunney announced as principal umpire, with vociferous spokesmen selected to argue his decisions, house members of the two parties meet this afternoon in Griffith stadium to see which one can sock the hardest, put most stuff on the ball, and slide home first and safe.

Sweet charity's sake is the principal reason for the conflict in which one-time athletes now grown somewhat corpulent step out to strut their stuff. The gate receipts will go to feed those who need it. Another reason is, admittedly, the small boy streak that persists in statesmen. The game was set to begin right after the house completed work for the day.

A considerable number of the country's leaders promised to attend: women's Democratic and Republican clubs have taken boxes, and foreign diplomats also were counted among the expected spectators.

Representative Vincent Carter of Wyoming, captained the Republican team, with the Democrats under McMillan of South Carolina. Democratic bat-boy is 70-year-old long-haired Representative Edgar Howe of Nebraska. Schaefer of Wisconsin, playing no ball, was made a member of the team solely to argue with the umpire.

MacGregor, Walter Dietrich, Clara Schaefer, Walton Steiner, Beulah Stever, Helen Knaack, Kenneth Lee, Althea Bartz, Alice Rettler, Leora Ness, Jean Voigt, Helen Behrent and Blanche Van Aernam.

High point winners for the year are Leone Warner, Lella Pfund, Ruth Barnes, Dot Blake, Evelyn Abel, Kenneth MacGregor, Walter Dietrich, Walton Schaefer, Clara Schaefer, Beulah Stever, Maxine Monson, Alice Rettler, Jean Voigt, Althea Bartz, Leora Ness, Marie Wolgram.

BACK BALANCED BUDGET, SENATORS ARE ADVISED

A message urging Wisconsin representatives in Washington to make every effort to balance the budget and restore public confidence was sent by the Advertising club Incorporated of Appleton to John J. Blaine, Robert M. LaFollette, and George J. Schneider, late this week. The wire read: "The failure of Congress to balance the budget is paralyzing business throughout the United States and within the past 30 days has increased the number unemployed by no less than 1,000,000 men. We, as retail representatives of the community, voice general public feeling in urging and demanding you to render the patriotic service we expect of you in helping to balance the budget and restore public confidence. This is no time for any public official to capitalize the country's present distress for selfish, personal, sectional or partisan purposes. Their actions will be judged and rewarded accordingly at coming elections."

My reasons for vetoing the above resolution are the same as for vetoing the $1,000 appropriation for Supervised Play. Last November, when the council made out the budget for the year 1932 the aldermen purposely cut out the appropriation for Supervised Play as one of the economies in reducing the budget, and at that time proudly boasted to abide by the budget as adopted. Therefore, I think it is my duty as Mayor, to veto any appropriation for Supervised Play.

Child Died After Beating By Mother, Kimberly Doctor Testifies

WOMAN FOUND INSANE, SENT TO HOSPITAL

Insanity Hearing This Morning Follows Inquest at Kimberly

Mrs. Norman Kirkland, Kimberly, who on the night of May 24 beat her 21-year-old daughter, Dorothy, so severely that the child died the next day, was found insane at Outagamie county court before Judge Fred V. Heinemann Saturday morning, and was committed to the Northern State hospital at Winnebago. Death of the child resulted from the beating. Dr. C. G. Mees, Kimberly, testified at an inquest conducted by Stanley A. Staidl, district attorney, at the Kimberly village hall Friday afternoon. The inquest was conducted before Justice Matt A. Hopfenberger.

Dr. Mees said the wife and suffered bruises under the left eye, on the back of the left ear, on his neck, back and arms, and around both knees. He said when he questioned Mrs. Kirkland, she told him she had beaten the child.

Dr. Mees advised that the woman be examined by alienists, as Mrs. Kirkland was not in condition to testify immediately.

Mr. Kirkland, the only other witness at Friday's hearing, said the family ate supper at 6:30 Tuesday evening, May 24, and that shortly afterward he left for work. He said his wife later told him that after he left, she gave the child blueberry sauce. When the child soiled the tablecloth the mother became angry. He declared his wife told him that she knocked the child off his high chair, picked it up, raised it in the air, threw it on the floor, and then struck it. He testified his wife told him she then put the child to bed.

Mr. Kirkland said he returned home from work at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning, May 25, and that when he looked at the child in the dark room, he thought it was sleeping. He said when he got up at 3 o'clock the next afternoon and missed the child, he went to its room, where he found it severely injured.

When he was about to go for a doctor, Mr. Kirkland testified, his wife said she would take her own life if he left. He said he stayed and watched the child, whose breathing was becoming faint. Then he went for a doctor and the child died during his absence.

Mr. Kirkland stated that on several occasions his wife threatened to kill him and end her own life.

SUPPORT HOOVER'S PLAN FOR FURLOUGH

Proposal Offered as Substitute for 10 Per Cent Slash in Pay

Washington—(AP)—The Hoover plan to furlough government employees was offered to the senate today as a substitute for a flat 10 per cent pay cut after it had voted down a proposal to exempt salaries below $2,500 from the cut.

The Hoover proposal, rejected by the house which adopted the $2,500 exemption, was put before the senate by Senator Moses (R., N. H.) Under it government workers would be furloughed without pay for a month of each year.

Action on it was delayed until various other amendments to the 10 per cent cut plan have been acted upon.

Among these were proposals for a graded scale of reductions which would exempt the lowest salaries and bear most heavily on the larger ones.

Prospects for fulfillment of the hope expressed by Chairman Jones (R., Wash.), that the bill might be passed today dimmed considerably. The senate convened at 10 a. m. and two hours earlier than usual—but Senator Blaine (D., Wis.), resumed the lengthy speech which consumed about two hours yesterday afternoon. He ascribed the "unbalanced budget" largely to the appropriation for the reconstruction corporation and to postal "subsidies."

WON'T CONTINUE TO URGE KOHLER TO RUN

Fort Atkinson—(AP)—A. J. Glover, publisher of a farm periodical, today assured former Gov. Walter J. Kohler that he would do nothing further to be a candidate for governor.

In a telegram to Governor Glover said he would do nothing further to support the "draft Kohler" movement, but added that he cannot speak for citizens generally.

"You will understand, I am sure, that I cannot undertake to interfere in case the Republican conference demands your candidacy, as seems probable from reports throughout the state," Glover's telegram said.

May Be Cuba's President

Well-informed political circles in Havana assert that appointment of Dr. Orestes Ferrara as Cuba's secretary of state portends the resignation of President Gerardo Machado. Under Cuban law the secretary of state succeeds to the presidency when that office becomes vacant. Observers believe President Machado will step aside by July 1, when a payment of $7,000,000 on Cuba's foreign indebtedness is due. It is said that Dr. Ferrara is considered an acceptable interim president, although his Italian birth bars him from candidacy at the regular election scheduled for Jan. 1. Picture shows Dr. and Mrs. Ferrara.

STRIKE CROPS OUT IN STATE'S NEW MILK POOL

By-laws Are Adopted, Promoters Face Internal Dissention

Madison—The Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool association, organized Friday by adoption of its by-laws, but things did not go the way its chief promoters wanted them to go. Jack Sattell, a Milwaukee lawyer who appeared on the floor of the assembly, where meetings were held, as the representative of Milwaukee local, was the obstacle in the way. The organization procedure followed channels he had selected, and he was victor in several engagements.

The convention elected an executive committee and directors to take charge of the organization. Directors will later elect officers. The executive committee is composed of Walter Singler, president; Carl Olson, vice president; H. F. Dries, secretary, and H. A. Arnold, treasurer.

Twenty-six directors were elected as follows:

Ashtland: Fred Meinke; Brown: Fred Berghlin; Dane: A. J. Hogan; Outagamie: Walter Singler; Price: C. J. Morbach; Sauk: Fred Thorne; Waushara: A. H. Christman; Wood: J. P. Russ; Washington: H. A. Hendricks; Walworth: H. A. Arnold; Rock: W. S. Holmes; Richland: Ed Keane; Crawford: Paul Vess; Racine: M. Heise; Ozaukee: H. H. Dries; Juneau: H. Hornburg; Iowa: Thomas Crook; Kewaunee: Joe Watcek; Grant: Oman; Columbia: M. C. Bartholomew; Portage: F. E. Clark; Clark: John Flugel; Vernon: Leroy Giff; Manitowish: Joe Bruner; Sheboygan: H. Schuler.

The elected directors will fill four vacancies on the board at their first meeting to be held June 10 at Madison.

HIT AT PUBLICATION

One of Sattell's thrusts was aimed at Mr. Wright, active in the organization of the pool, who has been publishing the official paper of the pool in Madison. One of the by-laws sponsored by Sattell sought to ditch the Wright publication by providing that the pool shall have its own publication. It was adopted.

The board of directors, however, have the final say with respect to the personnel to conduct the publication.

The status of other active organizers of the pool is also subject to action by the directors. The Sattell group aimed a number of drives at Mr. Holmes, but the directors will determine whether he will continue as manager and state organizer.

H. H. Holmes, Milwaukee, is unpopular as to the status of the organization produced. He hinted that another meeting might be necessary to validate what was done Thursday night. I. M. Wright, Waushara, argued that under the state cooperative law it was illegal to adopt by-laws by mass convention vote instead of by vote of delegates recognized by the credentials committee as representing local pools. His objection was overruled and the mass convention method was followed.

Against State Affiliations

The reading of the by-laws by Otto Rohm, Outagamie county disclosed that the committee had stricken out a proposed by-law by Sattell to the effect that no one who was an officer in another co-operative should be permitted to be an officer in the milk pool. This was aimed at Mr. Holmes, who is president of the Central Co-operative association. That omission was in part repaired when a by-law was adopted providing that the milk pool should not become a member of any other co-operative except a national co-operative. That bars affiliation with the Central Co-operative.

The Central Co-operative is an association which furnishes aid and financial advice to newly organizing co-operatives and it is said to have furnished funds and counsel to bring the milk pool into existence. The by-law against affiliation will prevent what Mr. Sattell claimed was a project to collect 10-cent annual dues from the milk pool members for the Central Co-operative.

Other by-laws proposed by Sattell forbade officials of the milk pool to be candidates for political office and fixed the pool's headquarters in Milwaukee. Sattell lost his fight for the committee failing to recommend them for consideration.

TAX SYSTEM IS OLD-FASHIONED, SAYS CALLAHAN

Adjustment to Growing Industrial World Needed, He Declares

Criticizing the present American tax system as antiquated, John N. Callahan, state superintendent of schools, told approximately 600 Outagamie county rural school board members at this morning's convention session at Wilson school that the system still remains on the basis of local industry when it should be adjusted to the growing industrial world which has long since developed into the widespread factory system.

Mr. Callahan pointed out that the fair system of taxation in modern time must be developed from the income made on various products rather than the property itself. To illustrate this he gave school men figures of the small percentages of products actually consumed in the vicinity in which factories are situated. He explained how the average citizen uses in his every day commodities fuel, gasoline and even clothing which, through the development of industry, comes from out of the state.

In presenting three objections to the present tax system, Mr. Callahan declared that no exemptions should be allowed in income taxes, that income taxes should be larger than property taxes and that the division of tax money should give the state rather than the local community from where it arises, the bulk of the tax money. It is these phases of the tax which are behind the times, he pointed out.

"Home ownership would become an incentive to more people," Supt. Callahan declared, "if income taxes were to be greater than property taxes."

Offers Statistics

He showed through statistics the burden of state improvements which falls on property taxes in the state, declaring that if exemptions of $3 for unmarried persons and $17.50 for married people were abandoned the present property tax would be lowered. The single person and the married people are better able to pay tax on their entire income, Mr. Callahan asserted, in that the single person has little property to protect. In the case of home owners, it would be better economically, to pay the tax burden from the income side rather than the property ownership, so that in case the income suddenly decreases, the burden of keeping up a home is not so great. This, he pointed out, would create a greater interest in home ownership.

"Statistics show that approximately one voter in every four in Wisconsin files an income tax," Mr. Callahan said as he declared that every adult earning any salary should be forced to file a return, whether he were taxable or not.

Discussing the background of taxation, which has existed in some form or another since the days of the old Roman Empire, the superintendent said that taxation has taken on an entirely different meaning than former days.

Today taxation is the process of buying collectively what people want as a community and which they could not afford as individuals, according to the speaker. This is shown in the roads, schools, health work of states and counties.

George S. Dick, state rural school supervisor, discussed the six factors behind the public school, which cooperating makes for the success of the school. These are the factors of state, home, school, teacher, pupil and taxpayer. Mr. Dick discussed the purpose of each in the school system and stressed the interdependence of each of these factors, which collectively make the public school system a smooth running department.

A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, presided at the meeting. He presented a short report on county school equipment.

SPORTSMEN OF U. S. BUY MANY PLANES

Detroit—Sportsmen of the country have been aiding in keeping aviation going, Charles W. Lawrence, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, reports.

"Sportsmen fliers," he says, "consume a considerable percentage of the airplanes built in this country. Approximately 40 per cent of the craft produced in the United States goes to the private owners both for pleasure and business use."

"Especially is the use of airplanes for sports purposes increasing rapidly. Fishermen, hunters, yachtsmen, tourists and sportsmen of all kinds are using aircraft everywhere in the world."

"Hundreds of sportsmen use the airplane exclusively for fishing and hunting, a surprising number of them flying into the Arctic and Antarctic."

BABSON SAYS STANDARD MUST BE MAINTAINED

Fit Selves Now to Be Ready for Prosperity When It Returns

BY ROGER W. BABSON
Babson Park, Mass.—The important thing is not the depression but how we are taking it. The general depression will pass away and general prosperity will return, but whether prosperity ever returns to a given individual or business depends absolutely on his or its conduct now. This generation is undergoing, for the first time, a crucial test. The depression will strengthen the characters of some and destroy the characters of others, depending on the stuff they are made of. We are going to learn that the real failure is not loss of money or position but loss of character; and in the same way we are going to learn that real success can only come by maintaining, through thick and thin, high standards of conduct both in business and in life.

Those concerns and individuals who either resolutely accept failure or, under pressure, resort to unethical or dishonest practices as the easiest way out, can never share in the future prosperity of the country. These hard times are rapidly separating the fighters and the "square-shooters" from the cheats and the "quitters." You can easily tell them apart. The quitters are fleeing to the personal bankruptcy courts to escape their just debts. They fail to realize that by so doing they are blasting their characters, credit, and reputations for many years to come. In other words, they are running from the chances of future success. The fighters, on the contrary, will stand their ground, frankly explain their position to their creditors, and honestly determine through hard work and self-denial to pay back every cent as soon as they are able. These are the men who will ultimately succeed.

Build For Future
One group of business men will shade the quality of their goods by putting in inferior materials, thus cheating the public, who now, as never before, need every bit of wear and service from the things they buy. The other group of business men will maintain their same standard of honest quality and refuse to be pushed into the "gyro goods" class, even though they temporarily have to operate at a loss. They will lower prices but will refuse to misrepresent their merchandise in order to undersell competitors. They know that the only sound foundation upon which to build a business is fair dealing with their customers. They will not try to escape the present depression by engaging in the reputation of their business for all time. Rather by constantly sticking to the job, keeping an open mind to new ideas in sales and production, and carefully watching the trend of demand, they will fight through on an honest, upright basis.

Some manufacturers are taking advantage of labor's distress; many irresponsible sweatshops have appeared. These are merely breeding ill-will for the future, and cannot last. Even though temporarily they may make profits from the abuse of labor and by unfair competition in established markets, the manufacturer who wins out finally will be the one who has made honest goods and has treated his labor fairly, even though he has had to reduce wages. It is only the cheats and the quitters who resort to sweatshop methods, and sooner or later they suffer the consequence of their misdeeds. If the laws of the States do not get them the inexorable laws of sound economics will.

Test Politicians
This depression, with its tremendous national problems, is also applying the acid test to our politicians. We are finding out which ones are interested primarily in their own positions and pocket-books, and those that are interested primarily in the welfare of the country. Whether they are Republicans or Democrats, by their actions rather than by their words, we shall know them. Those who rise above selfish considerations, party politics, and act in a sane upright manner to balance the budget, force government economy, and enact a fair tax bill need not worry about the future. On the other hand, those who try to further their own narrow ambitions by catering to sectional and partisan jealousies will blast their political careers forever.

Even though these hard times have brought great suffering they are not without their compensating values. Men and women in all sections of life are learning for the first time what real character is. Those who are fundamentally honest, courageous, industrious, and humane will find the battle a stimulant and strengtheners to their de-terminations. Those who are cowards, weaklings, cheats, and self-seeking and cruel will be tried in the crucible of depression and discarded from future respect or consideration.

General business as measured by the Babsonchart is now 39 per cent below the normal X-Y line, compared with 38 per cent a month ago, even with adjustments for usual seasonal movements.

Steel Regains Favorable Place By New Pay Scale

Recently, when the United States Steel Corp. reduced wages by 15 per cent the security markets responded to the development with a sharp rally. This rise merely reflected Wall Street's recollection that in 1921 following similar wage cuts the steel industry shortly was on its way to recovery.

If the pattern of 1921 should be followed this year production shortly should begin to rise, steel prices should take a definite turn upward within five or six months, steel wages should be restored at least in part within 12 months. These things are exactly what happened after the deflation of wages and prices at the bottom of the depression 10 years ago.

As pointed out by the magazine Steel, all three factors of the great basic industry — production, wages and prices — have maneuvered into the same relative position they occupied in 1921, just prior to the revival in steel demand which soon lifted both prices and wages.

In 1921 the United States Steel Corporation reduced wages three times in succession, the total dropping 26 per cent from the previous peak. This year wages have been cut two times, the total reduction being nearly 24 per cent or almost equal to that in 1921.

Although prices of steel products are substantially below the levels touched at the low point in 1921, wages are still higher than they were then. The business world will watch the trend of the steel industry with a great deal of interest because any upturn of this industry will signal the coming of general recovery.

TIMIDITY OF STOCK SPECULATORS KEEPS THEM FROM BUYING

Sweeping Declines in 1929 Foremost in Minds of Investors

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
New York — The greatest deterrent to entering the thoroughly deflated security market for the purpose of accumulating holdings for price appreciation, sure to come eventually, is not the difficulty of deciding on a medium but the fear that prices may go lower yet. It is a fact that vast sums have been lost, on paper and in reality, by those who entered too soon. Some bought back in 1929 when prices were, as was believed then, collapsing but as now known were simply initiating a decline that was to extend over two years. Such heavy losses if they have held on all this time and in any case have had their capital depleted. More or less that is true of all the purchases made in the interim.

How then shall we know that the same experience may not befall us if we venture a commitment now? There is no answer to this question except that we do not know; that prices may not continue to fall and that if we buy now we may not see better opportunities later on. It is this complex, to use a term much employed by the psychologists, amateur and professional, that checks any inclination to take advantage of the bargains so liberally presented. It operates on the mind of the large capitalist even more effectively than it does on those of more modest means.

Meanwhile every drop in the market undermines accounts in banks and brokerage offices and brings out more stocks and bonds with a consequent acceleration of the decline. If one is to act to his own eventual profit he must shut his eyes to all these superficial considerations. When a stock is selling for less than its equity in working capital, and there are numerous stocks in that position its purchase is indicated unless one accepts the counsel of despair, the view that American corporations will operate unceasingly at losses stopping only when all their resources are exhausted.

When a corporation is able to show increasing earnings in times like these further decline in its shares is indicative of forced selling or of the unreasoning fear that spells panic. Those who give way to fright of that kind cannot be helped anyway.

THE VALUE OF ELECTIONS

The President is letting it become known that he is directing the writing of the prohibition plank for the Republican platform. His postmaster-general has hopefully, almost joyfully, stated that the plank will be one to which "all can subscribe."

We trust so but we will carry doubt until we see it. Somehow it is hard to get out of mind the zero in Mr. Hoover's record in relation to prohibition. His amazing indifference, his lack of response to the pleadings of three-quarters of the people of this country for relief from prohibition and Caponeism until the election have in sight, is enough to place any action at this time under close scrutiny.

In spite of the depression Mr. Hoover has had some excellent opportunities. His greatest opportunity was to right a signal wrong, a colossal blunder that this nation committed through and during the excitement and emotionalism of war, when our pulses beat fast and our eyes saw red, and our judgment was topsy-turvy.

Not alone did Mr. Hoover know the way public sentiment was going, as everyone knows it, but he realized much more than the man in the street and because he is thoroughly schooled in the principles of this government, that aside from any argument concerning temperance or morals, the putting of prohibition, a police regulation, into the constitution, alongside of the proven, sacred and imperishable principles of the ages was more than an absurdity.

If the national convention is to give us a plank of which the Missouri Republicans gave us a sample it might as well remain unwritten. The Missouri Republicans, under the eye of Mr. Hoover's Secretary Hyde, declared in favor of "a national convention to be called as speedily as possible in accordance with the federal constitution to deal with the subject." They seemed satisfied to permit the voter to remain in ignorance of the fact that no such convention can be called except on the petition of the legislatures of two-thirds of the states. That would put the matter off for another five or ten years. There are people in this country whose lives are drawing to an end and who would like to see a little of the decency of older days before they go.

Mr. Hoover, so far as prohibition is concerned, has been of no assistance. There is no time for any more of the contortions of delay. Prohibition is going out of the constitution because, upon 15 years' mature reflection, the people so will it. It is going out the most direct way. There isn't enough slippery elm in the country to save it.

THE GERMAN CHANCELLOR

The new German chancellor, von Papen, whose cabinet is closely linked, almost indistinguishable from the old imperial regime, is not unknown in this country.

He was Germany's military attache at Washington during the World war and was expelled on orders of the president for highly improper activities while our countries still remained at peace. He was directly accused by Mr. Wilson, upon formidable evidence, "of forming plots to destroy property and entering conspiracies against the neutrality of the government as well as seeking to pry into every confidential transaction of the government."

After his departure he was indicted by a federal grand jury for alleged participation in a plot to destroy the Welland canal. This indictment, brought in on April 17, 1916, still stands. At the time of his indictment the reasons assigned were given out officially as follows:

"(1) That the department of justice, in view of the conclusive evidence against him, believes there should be attached to his name whatever stigma the indictment carries.

(2) That the indictment carries with it an amount of punishment in that, since it cannot be outlawed by time, Captain von Papen can never return to the United States without running the risk of arrest and trial.
(3) For its general effect and a possible warning against the abuse of diplomatic privilege by representatives of nations accredited to the United States."

Chancellor von Papen's record shows him to be a Junker of the Bismarckian, chauvinistic school, with little patience for the rights and little tolerance of the opinions of others where the interests of his country are thought to be involved.

Unless he has learned a great deal in the last sixteen years the helm of state in Germany is in dangerous though crafty hands.

A NEW TARIFF WAR
THREATENS

Tariff proposals now pending in congress are likely to have unpleasant and possibly serious results in our relations with Latin-American nations.

Dispatches from Peru indicate that the leading South American republics are endeavoring to form a Latin-American customs union for united defense and concerted reprisals against the tariff policies of the United States.

Several years ago, Argentina attempted a similar action because of Washington's increase in duties on agricultural products, but the negotiations failed because neither Chile nor Peru were interested, their exports being mainly oil and metals, which were unaffected.

Now with our proposed duties on copper and oil the situation is entirely changed and Peru and Chile are up in arms. The Peruvian foreign minister has stated that the passage of the proposed duty on copper would mean absolute ruin to Peru and Chile and they have no alternative but to take concerted action in defense, not only of their interests, but of their very existence.

Reports indicate that negotiations have almost reached an agreement between Chile and Peru, with Argentina expected to join because the conditions which instigated similar proposals by the latter country on a former occasion still exist. Any definite action is being held in abeyance pending the outcome of diplomatic discussions with Washington.

This situation is a good example of the many serious questions involved in all tariff legislation. It is one likely to create considerable attention at Washington, carrying as it does the threat of destroying much of the goodwill which the Pan-American Union has attempted to build up in the western hemisphere.

Opinions Of Others

A SCHOOL OF PAPER CHEMISTRY

A Unique graduate school has been established at Lawrence College in Appleton, Wis., devoted to research in the chemistry of pulp and paper making. It is appropriate that such an institute should be associated with a college of the liberal arts and sciences in a region where the making of paper has one of its capitals. The art of printing has been called the "art preservative," but it is dependent upon the paper-making art, which is in the way of becoming a science. One purpose which it has in mind is to give longer life to what is put upon the page. The art of printing has also been called the "art divine," but whatever divinity it has it must share with the paper which is as its body. In ancient times Zeus talked to mortals through the stirring of the leaves of the oaks of Dodona. The god in man now talks to his fellow-men through the bodies of the spruce and other trees and even the fiber of plants, when transmuted by the chemist.

The institute at Appleton has in its possession, as a marriage certificate of the two arts, a single page of the Gutenberg Bible, which, continuing in perfect state, carries its letters without the slightest dimming after nearly 500 years. It will have first place in the new library of paper-making, for which a gift of $100,000 was announced at the dedication of the laboratory building. And if the college should ever grow into the name of "university," it should gather its courses about this science which ministers directly to the liberal arts, as Clark University, for instance, has made geography the centre and soul of its graduate courses.

It is stated by a foremost authority that though paper-making has been an art for 1,800 years, newspaper paper is "still largely made by rule of thumb." The manufacture of iron and steel is under the control of chemists. It is quite as important that the chemist should make research in "the relatively new and less understood raw material which is wood." What the volume of that raw material must be is suggested by the fact that a single Sunday number of THE NEW YORK TIMES if cut into strips of column width and attached end to end would reach fifteen times around the earth. When one adds the almost numberless newspapers and magazines and other periodicals, pamphlets and books, they are indeed enough to cover the earth with knowledge "as the waters cover the sea."—New York Times.

THE MARCH on Washington seems to be proceeding in earnest . . . already, some fifteen hundred war veterans have arrived and all over the country, hundreds more are getting ready . . . just what is to be accomplished by this move, we don't know . . . but it strikes us that the veterans might have done better to march on Chicago, turn west on Madison street and hike out to the Stadium to await the arrival of the party delegates to the two conventions . . . whether the members of Congress are in Washington or whether they've skipped out to Chicago, most of their attention will be centered on the big town down south of us about two hundred miles.

Jack Dempsey has himself a new gal, She's Lina Esauette of the movies. Jack, "There's no romance." But Jack, as well as he could take care of himself in the ring, has never been able to put up much of a defense against a dark-haired gal with plenty of cinema beauty. Estelle Taylor showed that. She cost Jack a lot of money and provided him with no end of worry. But boys will be boys.

Bringing to mind that Maxie Schmeling and Jackie Sharkey will have each other in a few weeks, Maxie a real champion, but between them probably the only two heavyweight contenders whose muscles are worth feeling. Between that fight, the political conventions and the fact that Uncle Jonah's birthday occurs at the height of things, June is certainly turning out to be a great month.

Hooey Long trotted back to Louisiana to poke his nose into the affairs of state. That's typical of Hooey, the Kingfish. And the Louisiana legislature invited Hooey to go back to Washington and pay attention to affairs. Did that bother Hooey? Nawww. He loves to have people get mad at him. The thickness of his hide seems to be only rivaled by that of his head.

You can understand, of course, why the Louisiana legislature feels as it does about Hooey, but perhaps they'd be doing the government of the United States a greater favor by keeping him at home as long as possible.

Riverton, Wyoming, wired Washington not to make an appropriation for a new postoffice for Riverton, but to save the money. That western city deserves several sorts of medals. But how many others are there like it?

THE THINGS ETERNAL

If life be nothing but a fight
For food, a place to sleep at night,
And fire and robes to wear;
If growth be nothing more than size,
And age be merely dimming eyes,
Then death's the end of care.

If men, like bugs and flies and worms,
But live their days on nature's terms
And in her process die,
Then brute and beast, who eat and drink,
Are better off than men who think
And often sit and sigh.

But age with joy a book can thumb
And dream of ampler years to come,
And under every care
And back of hurt of every kind
The thoughtful man can solace find
Which softens his despair.

Long after nature's growth is done
A growth in wisdom still goes on,
With its attendant peace,
And something hints that worldly strife
Is but the gateway to a life
Where growth shall never cease.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

VARICOSE ECZEMA AND VARICOSE ULCER.

Drs. Weeks and Mueller of New York report their experience in the treatment of 325 cases of varicose veins by injection, the so-called chemical obliteration method. They conclude this is the safest and surest method of ridding a patient of varicose veins.

The obliteration of the varicose vein or veins proves the most effective treatment for the obstinate eczema and for the ulcer that complicates so many cases. In this series 88 per cent of the eczema and ulcer cases were healed, and remained healed, when the veins were obliterated.

These physicians prefer a solution of quinine and ethyl carbamate for injecting the veins, and they believe only one injection should be given at each treatment. They prefer this particular sclerosing agent because they say the patient does not have the cramp in the leg which is frequently present for several minutes following injections of sodium salicylate or sugar solution. Other physicians with wide experience in the treatment of varicose veins favor salt or sugar solution.

When I began recommending this injection or chemical obliteration treatment for varicose veins here several years ago many of the complacent big shots of the profession openly, pooh-poohed the suggestion, some who will never grow up even assuring credulous patients that such treatment would be "dangerous."

Today no good doctor would think of subjecting a patient to the poor results of old-fashioned surgical removal of varicose veins.

Later when I began urging on readers the diathermy method of extirpation of tonsils, many of the bad little boys of the profession, especially the little brass throat specialists, behaved just as incorrigibly about it. In the more benighted communities some of the old timers are still opining that there is something "dangerous" or "inadequate" about this newfangled method, and these same antiquated practitioners are still maintaining a morality rate from the removal of tonsils by the old Spanish method.

Recently when I announced here that if I had a hernia I'd have the ambulant or injection treatment first, and only when a fair trial of that failed would I consider undergoing the radical operation, I was encouraging to note that only a few of the hard-boiled old timers had the temerity to deplore my teaching, and not one, so far as I know, has ventured to scold me in print about it.

The world moves, and sometimes a careful observer can note a suggestion of movement along with it among even us regular physicians. Perhaps it is just as well for the public welfare that a large majority of regular physicians have to be literally yanked along with the rest of the world, otherwise we'd be overlooked and forgotten, what with the racket of the charlatans.

These three modern refinements—chemical obliteration of varicose veins, diathermy extirpation of tonsils and ambulant treatment of hernia—are all that make me feel the young doctor today. For all the rest of his lot I can only offer him my sympathy. He needs a lot of that to stand the gaif.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Breathing in Bag for Hiccough. I tried your breathing in a bag for hiccough and found it stopped the hiccoughs in a few seconds, after hours of suffering. . . (A. G.)

Answer—I do not remember the name of the physicians who devised this simple yet efficacious treatment for hiccoughs. The victim simply takes a paper bag such as grocery use, holds it as snugly as possible over nose and mouth, and breathes in it for a minute or two, thus getting the advantage of a concentration of carbon dioxide to inhale.

Black Beard. My brother shaves once and many times twice a day, yet in a few hours after shaving his face is covered with a heavy dark beard. Would peroxide bleach it without harm? (P. J.)

Answer—I know of no harmless remedy. Brother might put on a turtle neck sweater and use some black shoe polish on his hair and look just like Clark Gable.

The Constipation Habit.

Formerly I took all kinds of physics, used plain and fancy syringes and all such tom-foolery, and was in a miserable state of mind from constant worry about the action of the bowels. I became a convert to your teachings, and I have used nothing whatever to "regulate" that function for more than a year, and I never have any trouble. Thank you, Doctor. (R. D. W.)

Answer—The first five days are the hardest. After that it is easy sailing. Glad to send detailed instructions to any victim of the habit who wishes to know. And why we all should use a stamped envelope bearing his address, and (c) says he or she has the constipation habit. (Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE bushel basket ran real fast. Said Duncy. "How long will this last? I cannot run much farther. This seems foolish as can be?"

"Where is that basket going to go? That's one thing that I'd like to know. And why we all should chase along is something I can't see."

"Oh, don't be lazy," Scouty said. "Why don't you ever use your head? You wonder where the basket's bound. That's what we'll soon find out."

"It must be heading for some place that's interesting. Here it is! I'm going to run until I find out what it's all about."

Just then the basket tripped and fell and Copy let out quite a yell. "Now we can catch it," he exclaimed. "Don't let it get away."

The basket was real scared, no doubt. It spilled a lot of cans and said, "I've no time for play."

"Please help me with these cans and things. Oh, my, what trouble bad luck brings. I'm in an awful hurry and I'm sorry that I stopped. If you wee lads will lend a hand, I'll really thank that it is grand. I won't take long to pick up all the cans that I have dropped."

"Why, sure we'll help," said Windy. "We are always helpful as can be." And then the Tynmites worked real fast till things were fixed up right.

The basket then said, "Follow me and quite a thrilling sight you'll see. I'm bound for Tin Can Town and I must get there ere it's night."

So down the winding road they went. About a half an hour was spent before the basket stopped and cried, "Here, look what is in store. It's Tin Can Town, my future home, and from it I will never leave." The entrance to the place was strange. A barrel was the door. (Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc.) (The Tynmites meet the king of Tin Can Town in the next story.)

A Bystander
In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—it is far from a pleasant thought—indeed, to almost everyone it rears its head as an object of dread—that congress will continue to sit after the political conventions in Chicago this year.

Not since 1916 have senators and representatives held a summer session during a presidential election year. The idea of one this year, and there's plenty of talk about it around the capital at the present, has caused a cloud of gloom to envelop "the hill."

Nor is it confined solely to those gentlemen in the house and senate, who even now are "champing at the bit" to get away from Washington and back home and about their business of "politicizing."

The leaders are as vitally concerned. As one in the house expresses it: "It would tax all of my ingenuity to attempt to describe what would happen in a post-convention session."

Politics In The Air

Scenes rivaling those that take place on convention floors are not at all unlikely. For from the time the Republicans and Democrats name their candidates at Chicago there'll be nothing in the air but politics.

The house and senate chambers, even in normal times, serve as excellent sounding boards. How much more valuable would they be immediately after the period of conventions with the political "hygiene" not even cooled off, but increasing in intensity daily?

Sleeping dogs of legislation would almost certainly come to life. The soldiers' bonus, the untold proposals for economic relief—there would be hardly any end of such proposals now more or less dormant, springing to the fore. With the convention period affording a breathing spell and the remainder of the summer stretching before them there's no telling what might happen.

Congress Finds a Way

But all is not as dreary as it might be. The middle of May in a presidential year never fails to give rise to fears of this kind. The docket is always crowded.

But somehow congress finds a way to disentangle itself and get away by convention times. There's a tremendous amount of work to be done yet, to be sure. And some have served notice that unless relief legislation for the unemployed is enacted adjournment is impossible.

But no less a person than that uncanny prophet, and admittedly the person who perhaps keeps his ear closest to the ground—Senator McNary of Oregon, assistant republican leader—believes the jam can be broken.

And the dapper "Charlie" seldom goes wrong in his forecasts.

The railroads are still reeling about the government keeping away from business. They must want the money delivered by messenger.

Which party are you

STRAW vote?

This year the straw hat honors will be fought out between the sailors and the panamas.

Both here . . . as fit as fiddles. Both full of looks, action and value.

Some men whose attics are full of old sailors will change to panamas. Men who have backed panamas will let sailors head their list.

Suit yourself for we have both . . . at the lowest prices fine straws ever bowed to.

Seen And Heard
In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES
New York—Exactly why Lillian Genth stopped painting nudes, which won her early renown, then turned to Spanish subjects, only to quit them for her studies of the orient, might make an interesting story.

But when you ask her about her painting cycles her invariable reply is: "That's something I can't discuss."

Mysterious? Yes. And this stout little woman, who was born in Philadelphia, admits that eastern mysticism has had a strong influence in her life. In her Central park studio apartment, heavy oriental furnishings and religious objects, she told me:

"Human beings live in cycles. I don't see why it should seem so extraordinary for me to express myself in cycles."
Never again will she execute another of the exquisite nudes such as hang in many a museum, she says. Oh, Chinese wretches don't count in this category, even if their 300 pounds are scarce of drapery. As for Spain, she still maintains her studio in Seville, but is inclined to think she won't go back there.

But the orient—she can hardly wait to return to China, she says, again and wander once more in Siam. The battling between the Chinese and Japanese cut short her last trip. It wasn't advisable for her to stray further along the strange paths. One of her experiences was to see ten Chinese shot down before her eyes.

Romantic Mystic
Has romance played any part in her chameleon career? Has she ever been married?
"I've never been married, if that's what you mean by romance," she said. "But I won't say romance has played no part in my life."

Out Of News Rooms
Walter Eberhardt, ex-newsman, who is doing publicity for a talkie equipment firm, wrote his first book in his spare evenings—a mystery story featuring a hard-boiled detective. It's titled "A Dagger in the Dark" and has been accepted for early publication.

Eberhardt formerly did newspaper work in Milwaukee, Duluth, Cleveland and Washington. He is going to write some more novels.

Mike Simmons, another man from the city rooms, who ambled off into movie publicity pastures, has contracted to do a biography of the colorful "Chuck" Connors, a personality of the Bowery heyday.

Jerome Beatty, Kansas boy who worked in editorial departments, publicity and advertising offices, published an author, also is the J. B. Caswell and Lawrence McKenna of magazine articles appearing under those names.

Morris Ryskind, still another newspaper "ex," is reporting 1932 the best year he ever experienced. In addition to being co-author of "Of These I Sing," Pulitzer prize play, and to cravering royalties from another show, he is scheduled to direct a new play, as yet unnamed, and to write a humorous book.

John Deering, the actor, comes of a family of theatrical people. But until 1930 he was making his living as a stock and bond dealer in Chicago. When the market got too tough he turned to the stage, and now is doing well enough in Hollywood.

Today's Anniversary
ALLIED SUCCESS
On June 4, 1918, French and American troops combined staged one of the most bloody battles since the late German offensive began. Masses of French troops, the allied forces beat off repeated attacks of desperate German troops who were mercilessly driven "on to Paris."

In these attacks the Germans suffered severe losses. French and American troops were firmly entrenched, and made no efforts to take any ground. The object seemed to be to take such a heavy toll of lives that the German rank and file would lose its morale.

English troops, also, had a successful day, recovering Thillois, southwest of Rheims.

Contract Bridge Aces See New War Cloud Gathering

BY TOM O'NEIL

New York (AP)—A great war cloud is looming in the world of contract bridge. The reorganized "four horsemen," who have parted with Oswald Jacoby, intend to challenge Ely Culbertson to a knockdown and drag out fight over the card table in a test of systems and ability. War on Culbertson is the basic reason for the changed team.

The horsemen were riding high over competitors in tournaments before last winter's great contract bridge match in which Culbertson triumphed over Sidney S. Lenz in a test of the Culbertson system against the "official" method. They have kept it up since then.

The contract for the Lenz-Culbertson match barred certain unnamed players as partners of either Lenz or Culbertson. Those barred included P. Hal Sims, big captain of the horsemen, and Willard S. Karn, who has won the only individual championship ever in competition. Jacoby, first partner of Lenz, resigned from the match after a quarrel with Lenz. The horsemen wanted Lenz to win that match, though they felt his methods were far inferior to theirs. They have resented criticism by Jacoby of Lenz, especially on lecture tours under Culbertson's auspices. They have disliked the endorsement of bridge paraphernalia by one of the horsemen, and they have resented having been largely on their meekness.

A large group of metropolitan bridge stars not only has never followed Culbertson's methods of play, but has been bitter in criticism of it. The view of the group was epitomized by Lenz before the match with Culbertson when he termed his rival "a super-showman, whose methods had been swallowed by the public, book, line and sinker."

Probably nothing will come of the "war" except barages of words. After the Lenz match Culbertson announced he was through playing in championship competition.

His attitude toward a prospective challenge by the horsemen is this: "The only purpose of such a match would be to settle the merits of systems. The horsemen are all fine players. Their methods are 95 per cent Culbertson. There would be no advantage in a match to determine the value of 5 per cent."

Jacoby's successor among the horsemen is Howard Schenken, who was a Culbertson partner against Lenz for one night during which the Culbertson side lost points. In social games Culbertson and the ace of his followers, Theodore A. Lightner, have had their victories over Karn and Burnstone.

OVER 2,000 ATTEND 1ST FARM FIELD DAY

College of Agriculture Demonstrates Results of Experiments

Madison (AP)—The first of two farmers' field days sponsored by the University of Wisconsin today drew more than 2,000 farm men and women here from southern Wisconsin. The second field day will be held in about two months.

Experiments and their results in the fields of poultry, dairying, dairy manufacture, farm animal feeding, nutrition and home-making were shown by members of the college of agriculture.

One of the most interesting exhibits was a machine which separates butterfat directly from whole milk, making possible the manufacture of butter from whole milk without first separating the cream.

Because of its far-reaching effect upon the dairy industry, the method of direct irradiation of market milk also proved to be one of the chief matters for inquiry at the college. At present milk is being irradiated indirectly on Wisconsin farms by irradiating the feed of cows but the process shown at the field day program irradiates the milk after it is extracted from the cow. Irradiated milk has a high Vitamin D content.

BY ANGELO PATRI

My dog Patsy, a lively wire-haired terrier, is an odd combination of sense and obtuseness. He can be the most obedient dog in the world, and the most yielding. It is all as he pleases. The only time he minds one is when he is intended to do what you wish on his own. Otherwise you may command and coax and threaten yourself blue in the face. In the last stage of helplessness you pick him up and carry him to where you want him. Then, according to mood, he will either curse you in deep rumblings or give you affectionate lollups and smiles.

But he has one peculiar and consistent characteristic. He is a fine disciplinarian for children. I didn't teach him. You see I haven't been able to teach him to do anything consistently. He will, or he won't, and that's the end of it. This queer understanding of children's ways is beyond me. How or when or why he acquired it is a mystery, but he can be counted on to keep the peace in any group of children. Babies and adolescents alike come under his authority, and both, alike, bow to it unquestioningly. His teeth permit of no argument. Not that he bites. He indicates his power and willingness to do so if necessary, but it is never necessary, you can well understand.

The first time he showed his fatherly attitude was when Susie was visiting. Susie had a voice like a callopo and a disposition of a wild pony. She used to pitch into her small brother and give him what for in tones that echoed over the hills. One day he had a shovel and a cart that Susie thought she would like. She reached for it and little brother yelled. Patsy, who was lying, apparently asleep, leaped and caught Susie neatly by the seat of her bloomers and held on to her grimly. "Let go, let go, you bad dog. Let go, I say."

Patsy held on grimly until I said, "All right, Patsy, she'll be good." Susie struck the seat of her bloomers affectionately and sniffed. "That's a bad doggie. He bites me." We took Susie into the house and examined her for traces of teeth but there was none. Not even a hole in the bloomers. We cautioned Patsy, but knowing disposition, with little faith. We kept a sharp lookout on him and it was not long before Susie brought his disciplinary powers to the front once more. This time she raised her arm to smack little brother. Before she could land on him Patsy had her trousers in a firm grip, pulling with all his might. Of course Susie shouted for help between threats and pleas to the growing monster.

"Come quick, Patsy's biting me again. Let go, you bad dog. Come quick." Again Patsy released her at a word and once more we examined her to see what hurt she had suffered. Not a mark could be found and we decided that the little white dog knew his business. "You see, Susie, Patsy knows you are going to annoy little brother and he knows that is wrong so he is going to stop you. The best thing for you to do is to remember he is here and keep your voice and your manners very gentle. If you raise your voice or your hand he will certainly grab you and hold you until I come."

After that whenever Susie raised her voice, even a little, she looked behind her anxiously. Her half-raised hand would fall back and her manners would take on a gentler turn. Patsy had taught her what nobody else had succeeded in impressing. Several people have asked to borrow him but I am afraid, knowing his character as I do, that he might surprise his hosts and give himself a bad reputation. Anyway he is very useful at home.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

THE STORY OF SUE

By Margery Hale

SUE GIVES "ADVICE" TO MRS. WEBBER

At the boldness of the question which Natalie Webber asked, Ruth felt her eyes widening. But she merely stared at the woman. A polite sort of stare. One that pretended that it didn't understand what she meant. Sue, to whom the question was addressed, didn't disguise the fact that she knew.

"If a man really loves his wife she won't lose him. He'll come back. All he needs is time. If he doesn't, he won't want him, after she gets organized and going again. He may then come and find that he's out in the cold."

"Good! I knew you would say that. I wanted your advice."

"My advice?" Sue repeated questioningly. "But I'm not giving you advice. I don't know the first thing about it. And I'm not going to get mixed up in any matrimonial unscrambling."

"It isn't necessary, my dear!" The woman rose. Her face wore a smile. One that was rather sure of itself. Victorious. "I just wanted your reaction and I have it."

"Then I had better elucidate a little more," Sue added casually. "If a woman succeeds in making a man get emotionally excited about her it doesn't mean that she has made him fall in love with her. But you know that. You've probably made some tests yourself. Because a man wants to kiss a girl doesn't mean that he wants to marry her! And because a man steps out with a girl when he has a wife of his own at home doesn't necessarily mean anything, either. It all depends on the man."

"Then you think that a man who does is just a philanderer?"

"Of course... if he just steps out with a girl. If he really cares... that's different. But he won't step out so casually then. And Jimmy, I judge, has been inordinately pretty heavily, hasn't he?" Sue asked the question quite matter-of-factly.

"Two-timing?" Mrs. Webber repeated the word, as though she hated to say it. It was distasteful, evidently.

"Isn't that what you call it? Playing two people at once. If he really cared anything about her he would go to Grace. There isn't any reason why he should. She isn't an invalid who needs his care, and there aren't any children... Oh, I can understand reasons all right where men can't, but they don't hold this time."

"I suppose you think you know a good deal about life, don't you?" Mrs. Webber asked in a voice that she evidently thought was confident and sure of its subject.

"No, I don't know anything about it. It doesn't follow rules and my intuition is horrible. But Jimmy..."

"I've just asked you if the sporty thing wasn't to come out in the open about things," Mrs. Webber said, an aside reminder Sue of a cat licking up cream. "And you have answered in exactly the same vein. You do think so. I'll go to Mrs. Hayden."

"I would... by all means," Sue answered. "And soon. It's better to have such things settled." She smiled icily but Mrs. Webber was not paying any attention to her smile.

"You answered the way I thought you would. I win my bet with Jimmy. He was so sure that you would say... but never mind, I must be going."

"Tell us about the bet first," Sue urged in a voice that she made hospitable purposely.

NEXT: The bet.

DEEP BREATHING SMOOTHS OUT YOUR NERVES

BY ALICIA HART

Have you ever had stage fright? Well, if you could have made your own breath deeply and regularly, you wouldn't have had it. Or at least, you'd have gotten over it immediately.

A renowned orator once told me that when he first began to speak he learned that if he swelled his stomach and diaphragm up just as big as he could, and took steady breaths, his head kept clear and his voice steady.

The reason for this is that regular, steady, deep breaths equalize the blood pressure and enable you to hold your emotions in check. Deep breathing has a smooth, soothing rhythm to it. Because it keeps your circulation right, it smooths out your nerves.

In the "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," the hero described in detail the effects of the deep breathing he learned in an Eastern cult. First he grew light-headed, then positively dizzy, then his mind became clear as a bell, his body so rhythmically in tune that he could utterly forget it.

Most folks breathe in a fashion we might facetiously call "from the neck up." Women are higher breathers than men. Especially women with sedentary occupations. Desk chair sitters. Or indolent chaise longue loungers.

Place both hands back under your own shoulder blades. Breathe until your hands move up and down. You can't budge them at first, for you aren't using your whole lungs. But gradually you will feel them move. Then you will learn just how to breathe to make them move. Keep right on breathing like that for 10 or 15 minutes. This is more important to your good circulation than exercise. For once you breathe right, your whole system has a chance.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

COMPROMISING WITH THE YOUNGER GENERATION

Dear Virginia Vane: May an old lady ask a question? I have raised a family of eight, and my youngest child is my problem. I know something about modern ideas, and although I am 40 I am not too old to sympathize occasionally. But when my daughter had a friend visiting her at Easter it was left to me to do all the extra work and get the meals. Do you think that was right? Shouldn't my daughter have put herself out to make the visit pleasant. Also when the girl entertains friends in the evening, her father and I sit in the dining room while she monopolizes the living room. And it is expected that I will have a supper or something ready for the guests. What do you think about it. Please let me know?

There has to be a compromise between modern ideas and those held by an older generation—but it isn't necessary for the older people to do all the compromising as some bright young things seem to think.

In this case, Mother, I should think it was certainly up to your daughter to help to entertain her friends, and to make it easier for you when they're in the house instead of piling extra work on you.

Next time there's a visiting friend, suppose you tell the young hostess that she will have her share of the added work which is only fair.

The problem of the good old monopoly of the living room is another matter. It's too bad but it's true that any party of young people is somehow cast into depression by the presence of fond parents. Even the most well-meaning mothers and fathers blunder badly when they insist on being present at gatherings of youngsters. They can be as sympathetic and nice as they want, but boys and girls will still prefer to be by themselves for their good times.

For that reason, in a small home, it is sometimes necessary for father and mother to retire to a safe distance in order to let the entertainment go on merrily in the living room.

You of course want your daughter to have her friends come to see her. You wouldn't like it if she were always dashing out directly after dinner was over. It's far better to have the crowd under your roof than to have them dashing over the countryside in search of amusement. And the trouble is that if you and father insisted on being with the party half the crowd would be heard to exclaim: "Oh, don't let's go over to Mary's. Her mother and father are always on deck." That's why a sacrifice has to be made occasionally in favor of the modern daughter and her friends. But she can't demand it of you every night of the week. She must be prepared to give up something for your sake occasionally. There is no reason why you should be banished to the dining room forever.

Certainly she ought to assist with the making of any refreshments her friends require. Unless you definitely make yourself the chief cook and housekeeper, it ought to be her responsibility to help with the meals and to learn how to arrange her own supper parties.

All in all, it's a question of each side giving in—and in this case it would appear that your daughter had not learned to give in at all but rather to make constant demands on you. Make it your business to get a fair deal yourself and to see that your daughter has one too.

"U" CLASSES PLAN BIRTHDAY REUNIONS

Anniversaries of Several Graduating Bodies Will Be Observed

Madison—(P)—Silver and golden jubilees will feature the class reunions during commencement week at the University of Wisconsin June 18, 19 and 20.

The class of 1887 will celebrate its golden jubilee under the leadership of Dr. Louis R. Head, Madison. The class of 1907, with Albert Goedjen, Green Bay, in charge, will observe its silver graduation anniversary.

Other classes which plan reunions are those of 1902, 1909, 1910, 1925, 1927, 1928, and 1929. Arrangements are being made for all alumni who are not members of classes planning reunions but who are planning to return for the commencement exercises.

Individual classes will go on motor trips around the campus and city to open the program June 18. The Alumni association will hold its general meeting at 10 a. m. at which five directors will be elected. Directors whose terms expire are Katherine Allen, and John McCarter, Madison; Ralph Balliet, Antigo; Loyal Durand, Milwaukee and William S. Kies, New York.

Class luncheons will be held in the Memorial Union and at various places along Lake Mendota and the University Concert band, under the direction of Major E. W. Murphy will give a concert at 4 p. m. Classes will parade from the upper campus to the Union at 6:15 p. m. where the Senior-Alumni supper will be held.

The president's reception will be held after the ceremony and the Alumni-Senior dance will start at 9:30 p. m.

MY NEIGHBOR SAYS —

It is a mistaken idea that cucumbers must be soaked in cold water or salted water for some time before serving, to remove the poison in them. They are not poisonous. Slice them and cover them with ice until ready to serve, then remove the ice.

Turkish towels which have worn thin make excellent wash cloths. Cut them in four parts and stitch two thicknesses together.

Have you a number on your house, and is it where it may readily be seen? If not, have one put on as soon as possible. Messenger boys, letter carriers, delivery boys and strangers find it most difficult to locate a house on which there is no number.

Free Hitting Contest Expected When Rapids, Appleton Meet

EDDIE KOTAL PLAYING 2ND FOR INVADERS

Bowers to Stay at Center, Versteegen at Second for Collegians

VALLEY LEAGUE

Green Bay 4 1 .600
Kimberly 3 2 .300
Appleton 3 2 .300
Kaukauna 2 2 .500
Wisconsin Rapids 2 3 .400
Shawano 0 4 .000

Sunday's Games
Kimberly at Green Bay.
Shawano at Kaukauna.
Wisconsin Rapids at Appleton.

The war clubs will rattle and base hits will bound off the boards at Brandt park tomorrow afternoon when Appleton and Wisconsin Rapids teams in the Fox River Valley League clash here. It will be the second meeting of the two teams this season, the Rapids having won the first contest, the league opener, by a score of 7 and 0.

Since then Appleton has strengthened its defenses and has sharpened its batting eye and gone out and won three games. One of the wins was over Kaukauna which team turned in a win over the Rapids.

Bowers in Center
There won't be much change in the Appleton lineup for Sunday. Bobbie Versteegen will get another shot at second base and Bowers probably will cavort in centerfield.

KAWA RAISE FLAG
Kaukauna beseated club will raise the 1931 Fox River Valley League pennant Sunday afternoon in a little ceremony previous to the game with Shawano. A flag pole has been raised along the left field foul line and is all ready for the bunting. Mayor C. W. Fargo of Kaukauna and President C. O. Baetz of the Valley League are scheduled to do the talking. The ceremony is set for 2 o'clock and the game gets underway at 2:30.

The left field garden is a question for it may go to Hunter Lake if the Rapids' hurler is a right hander, or to Muly or Dills if the tosser performs from the left side.

Lefty Behr is due to draw the hurling assignment per usual and will get help from Dubs Howe if his cunning hand beats the log.

Again again gets the assignment at first base, Versteegen second, Weisgerber short and Schultz third. All the boys have been performing well in recent games and the two Georges have been getting their hits regularly.

Kotal With Rapids
Wisconsin Rapids will show a number of performers well known to Appleton fans. For instance, Eddie Kotal, one time boss of the locals, will cavort at second base and with Bowers, Appleton, for base stealing honors.

Sandrin still is with the Rapids and works the left garden; Bromley has taken over Sub Howe's job at third base, and Kuenn is working at first base as usual and old "Hippo" Brandt is waddling in right field when he isn't smacking homers.

The hurling duties will go to Gockel, a former Three-I Leaguer or Lefty Easding. The latter was poison for Appleton last year but so far hasn't faced the Collegians. And "Whisking Mac" MacClain will handle the big pad behind the log.

A large turnout is being looked for tomorrow, for the wins last week should have received interest in the Appleton club. Attendance at the two home games to date hasn't been so high.

Green Bay, off to a flying start with four out of five victories, will be at home to Kimberly and the Pappersmakers can tie up the Green Sox for top position if they are successful in bumping off Rosenberg's success. Muench and Co. have won three games and dropped a pair.

Fahrenkrug, sensational recruit slasher, will probably toe the mound for Kimberly with Les Ashman replacing him. Lefty Fackie and Don Morgan for Green Bay.

SEEK OPPONENT FOR TONY CANZONERI

Chicago —(AP)— Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion of the world, must defend his title without too much delay, or have his title vacated as far as the National Boxing Association is concerned.

Under the rule which requires champions to defend titles at least once in six months, Canzoneri was due to risk his not later than May 20, but was not pressed when his manager agreed to a title fight as soon as a suitable challenger could be lined up.

The N. B. A., also has received a communication from the British boxing board of control protesting recognition of Tommy Paul of Buffalo, as featherweight champion, until he meets Nel Tarleton, Great Britain's best featherweight.

Wednesday—Appleton Wires vs. Pure Mills.
Thursday—Legion vs. Bankers.
Friday—Co. D. vs. Atlas Mill.

Atlas Mill softball, undefeated in the National League, copped again last night when they met the Bankers. The score was 5 and 1, the Banks getting four hits, three by Mollen and one by Schroeder. The former had a perfect day at bat.

The game probably was the fastest played here this season and took but 40 minutes as the teams retired each other in one, two, three or four during the first six frames. The Banks turned in an Atlas upswing.

Atlas counted two runs in the sixth inning, Zapp getting one and Getschow the other. Both came as result of hits. The other three tallies followed in the eighth frame. Vanderfeld, Mullen and Busch scoring. Mollen scored the only Bank run in the eighth.

McKenzie and Timmers worked for the Banks and Crane and Rathner for the Atlas.

Monday evening the American league squad will play a non-league game with Appleton Coated Paper company. The latter team plays in the American league. The game will begin at 5:45.

Consolidation of the Pure Milk company team and the Patten Paper company softball aggregations, have been announced by league officials. The team recently beat the Foresters of the Fraternal league, 9 and 8.

BEN PASCHAL GETS SIX HITS TO TIE RECORD

More Than 17,000 Fans See Columbus Open New $400,000 Stadium

CHICAGO —(AP)— Ben Paschal, former New York Yankee outfielder and for the past several years with the St. Paul club of the American association, today was a shareholder in an often recalled, but never bettered league record.

Paschal, who, like his club, was off to a rather indifferent start this season, yesterday wallowed Milwaukee pitching for six hits in as many appearances at the plate, and became the seventh player to accomplish the feat. He took picks on Kessinich, Stules and Braxton for three doubles and three singles, drove in three runs, scored three himself and helped the Saints to a 12 to 5 victory.

The record was set in 1925 by Bruno Haas of St. Paul, who tied in 1926, by Tony Cucinello of Columbus, and Elmer Yuter of Minneapolis, in 1929, and by Len Koencke of Indianapolis, and Eddie Pick of Kansas City, last season.

Leaders Beaten
The pace setters, Minneapolis and Indianapolis, each took beatings, the Millers bowing to Kansas City and Joe Dawson, 5 to 1, and the Indians losing to Toledo by 8 to 7, in 10 innings. Dawson kept the league leading Millers' eight hits well separated, while Jess Perry cracked up in the late innings to enable the Blues to win.

Toledo tied the score in the ninth with a two-run drive, and hits by White and Turgeon, along with Butch Henline's sacrifice, produced the winning run in the tenth. Ralph Winegarner replaced Moore in the eighth and received credit for the victory, and Archie Campbell, who pitched less than two innings for the Indians, was charged with the defeat.

More than 17,000 fans turned out for the opening of Columbus' new $400,000 stadium, and watched the Red Birds wallow Louisville, 11 to 2. Kenneth Ash gave the Colonels only four hits, and might have had a shutout, but for errors by Otto Bluege and Pat Crawford. The honor of hitting the first home run out of the new park went to De Witt Le Bourneau, who slashed one of Phil Wever's pitches over the right field fence with two aboard.

Gehrig Gets 4 Homers To Tie Record; Yanks Wallop Athletics 20-13

Braves Win and Cubs Lose; Boston Trails by Game and Half

BY GATLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer
L OUC GEHRIG, long accustomed to play second fiddle to the one and only Babe Ruth, today had carved himself a place in baseball's permanent record, the result of a home run spree never equalled by his illustrious teammate or by any other big league batsman in the last 38 years.

The Yankee first baseman, yesterday crashed four consecutive homers over the right field fence at Shibe park as his team beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 20 to 13.

Only once before had the feat been equalled. Robert Lowe, of the Boston Nationals of 1894, did it. Ed Deleahanty of Philadelphia hit four in one game in 1896, but only three were consecutive.

Yanks Get 7 Homers
Gehrig's record was not the only one to fall in the wild melee. The Braves won and the Cubs lost, 6 to 5, in a game that was a pitchers' duel. The Yankees' home run spree was the result of a combination of factors. The Yankees' home run spree was the result of a combination of factors.

ST. THERESE COPS FROM ST. MARY IN 12-INNING BATTLE
Defeat Was First This Season for Losers; Still Top League

A game that long will be remembered by those who saw it, was played yesterday at Erb park between the St. Mary and St. Therese teams in the parochial school league. It was one of the most interesting and nerve-wracking softball games played in the league since its organization last year. The game—a 12 inning affair—was won by St. Therese 6-5, and marked the first defeat in 13 starts for St. Mary.

The victory balanced up an earlier season defeat at the hands of St. Mary.

From the start the game was a pitchers' duel so that at the end of the seventh inning the score was tied at two all. The eighth inning was a fruitless one for both teams but in the ninth inning O'Brien, St. Mary shortstop, attempted to do his bit in ending the ball game when he batted out a hit to score a run that broke the tie. In the last half of the inning P. Murphy of St. Therese evened the count with his hit and run.

Appleton Merchants, the other local club, will invade Green Bay Sunday afternoon to meet the Hahnen Drags. The strength of the Bays is unknown and they have won one game in loop competition.

Buss will be on the mound for the Merchants with Werley ready to relieve him, if necessary. Eddie Helms will handle the big pad, Bauman will be at first, Bedford at second, Laabs at short, and Pete King at third. The outfield combination probably will be N. Pope, R. Tornow, and M. Pope.

EM MORTELL TO TAKE MOUND IN TITLE BATTLE

Win for Local Aggregation Will Give Claim to National Crown

APPLETON softballers, the Pond A.H.S.s, will make their first bid for national recognition tomorrow morning at Brandt park when they battle the Owl Cafes of Kenosha. The game will get started at 10:45 sharp. Originally the contest was booked for one of the school grounds but was changed to the ball park because of seating accommodations.

The Cafes have cleaned up on everything in southern Wisconsin, have defeated last year's state softball champs several times, and have defeated the Ruppert All Stars of Chicago, national champions for several years, in two out of three games.

WATER HEADLINES BAY FIGHT PROGRAM

Norbert Gerarden, Sparky Ahl Get One of the Preliminaries

Green Bay—When Adolph Weyer, Wisconsin Golden Gloves champion, meets Adam Smith, Rockford baker, boy in the final bout of the Columbus club program here Tuesday, June 7, he will face a fighter who has more than 75 amateur bouts to his credit.

Smith will be a tough foe for Weyer as he outweighs the Green Bay fighter by more than 20 pounds. The Rockford boy has been a member of the Chicago Golden Gloves team for the past two years.

Coach Jack Malevich, of St. Norbert college, who has been arranging the June 7 card here, believes fans will see many sensational fights as he has booked some of the best scrappers in the amateur ranks.

Several bouts appear to be "naturals" as the boys are evenly matched. Ernest Baidheim and Charles De Vett, who meet in one of the preliminaries, are sure to put up a real battle. Malevich believes as they are built along similar lines and love action. Norbert Gerarden, Green Bay and "Sparky" Ahl, Oshkosh, also should provide lots of fight. They met at Appleton recently, stealing the show with a whirlwind exhibition. Ahl got the verdict by a close margin and Gerarden has been anxious to reverse it.

FREMONT RACES GET N. O. M. A. APPROVAL
First Race Scheduled Aug. 6 and 7; Lay Out New Course

Another recognition has come to Fremont. Not content with a water carnival which annually attracts several thousand visitors, Fremont has applied for membership in the National Outboard Motor Association, and the application has been accepted.

This means that Fremont, along with Green Lake, Oconomowoc and Lake Geneva, will put on races under N. O. M. A. rules and acceptable for entry in N. O. M. A. record books, according to Edwin Sherburne, secretary of the Fremont Chamber of Commerce.

The first races under N. O. M. A. rules will be held during the water carnival Aug. 6 and 7. The new course suggested by N. O. M. A. executives is entirely above the bridge, to run west to Partridge Lake and back to the bridge, making the lower turn right above the bridge.

This will mean plenty of spills and thrills, to be witnessed by the throngs on the bridge and along the river bank. A. M. Sader is president of the Fremont Chamber of Commerce, an organization which includes every merchant in the village.

BILL TERRY IS NAMED MANAGER OF N. Y. GIANTS

Named By John McGraw Who Retires Because of Ill Health

New York—(AP)—The New York Giants now have the youngest manager in the National league but there is little danger any of them will attempt to take advantage of Bill Terry.

The big fellow from Memphis is only 33 but he has a mind of his own and he doesn't hesitate to express it. He will be manager of the Giants right up to the hilt.

The first thing he attended to after he was notified that he had succeeded John J. McGraw was to take effect in the club house. Then he called in the players, many of them his teammates for years, and had a thorough understanding.

"I told them that from here on they take orders from me and from nobody else. I told them I was going to ease up on some of the strict rules we've had and give them a chance to play ball for me and get out of the basement. If they can't do that there will be some changes."

Terry's elevation was a complete surprise to him. He never has, strictly speaking, been a member of the "McGraw school." He and the other players were known to have had their disagreements, and no later than this spring McGraw was forced to make a special trip to reconcile Terry to his 1932 contract.

McGraw, however, always has admired a fighter and it perhaps was only natural he should think of the big first baseman when he decided to step down. He asked Terry about it first.

"I felt so relieved when I told him I would take the job," Terry said. "Looked like a man who had had a 40-pound weight lifted from his head. And he was mighty nice. He said to me:

"Bill, if you ever need any help from me or want my advice, just ask for it. But you'll have to come for me because I'm not going to try to tell you how to run the team."

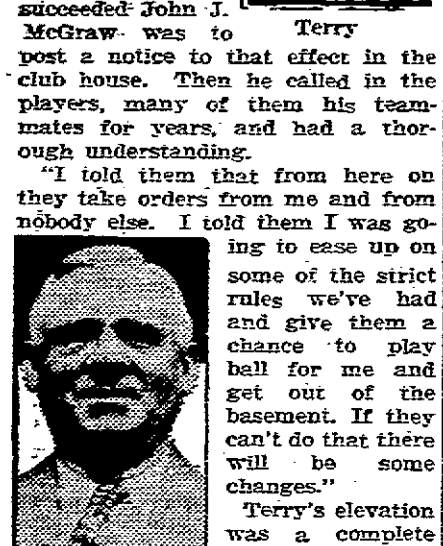

Terry said he was full of ideas but he isn't yet ready to make any radical decisions. He intends to make some trades before the deadline June 15 and admitted there were "two players" he would have to let go. He didn't give their names.

He expects to retain Davey Bancroft as his first baseman and is confident there will be no friction, despite the fact that the veteran has been in charge of the team much of the current campaign.

"I'm not the sort of a fellow to go back on a friend," he said. "And as long as Dave wants to work with me he has the job. But he, like the others, knows I'm boss."

Although he answers to "Memphis Bill" and has made his home there for years, Terry was born at Atlanta in 1898. He has a home in Memphis, a rambling affair, that cost its original owner some $70,000 to build, but Terry didn't pay anything like that price.

Mrs. Terry and the three children, a boy and two girls, are at Memphis now but are coming to New York shortly to spend the remainder of the season with the head of the family.

Sez Hugh: RAISE PENNANT SUNDAY DURING SHAWANO GAME

Special Program Will Precede Start of Fox River League Tilt

Kaukauna—Kaukauna's first Fox River Valley league pennant since 1911 will be hoisted here Sunday in conjunction with an elaborate program preceding the Shawano-Kaukauna baseball game. The pennant was won by the Kaws in 1931 competition in the Valley league. The Kaws also were impressive in their series with Sheboygan for the state title, although they lost the series.

The first pennant winning team for Kaukauna was in 1885, according to veteran baseball fans. In 1901 when the Kaws nearly annexed the Fox River Valley league title, losing by a margin of one game to the Appleton club. However, the Electric city nine retained by copying the Kaws from the Collieries in 1902. They also copied the State league title in 1903 then joining the league to play in the state competition for several years. In 1903, 1904, and 1911 the Kaws again had pennant winners, returning to the Valley league after several seasons in stiffer competition.

Sunday's program includes talks by Mayor B. W. Fargo and John D. Lawe, Kaukauna's oldest resident, and an ardent baseball fan. Two bands will play for the event. Following the talks and music, the pennant will be raised. A large crowd is expected to witness the flag raising.

Shawano has never made an impressive showing in the valley league since its entry last year, but has always been bad medicine to the Kaukauna nine. In 1931 the Indians threw a bad scare into the Electric city nine, losing a close 1 to 0 decision. Kaukauna, who batted first, won the game in the ninth inning, 3 to 2. The Shawano nine in that fracas will probably be on the mound for the Indians Sunday. The Indians showed considerable improvement in their game last Sunday although losing to Green Bay 5 to 4.

Manager Lamers will start Fortin on the mound, and fans can expect the usual airtight game. Fortin has been holding the heavy sluggers to a few scattered hits. He turned in a brilliant exhibition by defeating the league leading Green Bay Packers here last Sunday 3 to 0. Wenzel will do the receiving.

The remainder of the infield will be composed of Richard "Red" Smith, who has been leading the Kaws sluggers also doing a fine job of the initial sack. Marty Lamers at second; Zelinski at short; and Johnny Phillips at third. In the outfield, Leo Smith, also a heavy hitter, will be in left field; Joey Vils in center field; and Van Drasel in right field. Van Drasel, who is a rookie, coming to the Kaws from the American Legion amateur team last year, has been performing in the outer garden like a veteran.

Calling the Strikes

New York—(CPA)—Big Buzz Arlett may not be major league timber but many teams in the International league today who wish he were. With his home runs and his general heavy hitting, the players have with the pitchers who oppose Buffalo.

In Wednesday's game against Reading the hefty former Philly outfielder slammed out four home runs in four times at bat, knocked in seven tallies, brought his total of circuit smashes to 20 this far this season and tied the record for home runs hit in one game both in the International league and the two major leagues. Everything considered. Copyright 1932

MARQUETTE WINS TRACK TOURNAMENT

Nine Records Are Broken and Three Tied as 17 Schools Compete

Milwaukee—(AP)—Collegiate Olympic material flashed over the cinders under the floodlights at the Marquette University stadium last night as Marquette won the seventh annual central intercollegiate outdoor track and field meet.

Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette's "midnight express," ran through the dashes to aid his team in collecting 383 points. The University of Wisconsin was second with 33 and Notre Dame third with 234.

A Butler high jumper, Bert Nelson stole the show from Metcalfe by clearing the bar at six feet 7 1/2 inches to break the national intercollegiate mark of six feet 7 1/2 set in 1928 by W. C. Haggar of Texas.

Three central meet records were tied and nine broken as the cream of athletes from 17 midwestern schools showed their wares.

Other teams in the scoring were: Michigan Normal 22; Michigan State 21; Bradley Tech 8; Illinois Normal 8; Butler 5; University of Western State 4; Michigan 3; De Paul 1; and University of Detroit 1.

It was the second time Marquette won the event since the meet was started. Notre Dame captured the victory four times and Michigan state once.

The Shawano nine in that fracas will probably be on the mound for the Indians Sunday. The Indians showed considerable improvement in their game last Sunday although losing to Green Bay 5 to 4.

Manager Lamers will start Fortin on the mound, and fans can expect the usual airtight game. Fortin has been holding the heavy sluggers to a few scattered hits. He turned in a brilliant exhibition by defeating the league leading Green Bay Packers here last Sunday 3 to 0. Wenzel will do the receiving.

The remainder of the infield will be composed of Richard "Red" Smith, who has been leading the Kaws sluggers also doing a fine job of the initial sack. Marty Lamers at second; Zelinski at short; and Johnny Phillips at third. In the outfield, Leo Smith, also a heavy hitter, will be in left field; Joey Vils in center field; and Van Drasel in right field. Van Drasel, who is a rookie, coming to the Kaws from the American Legion amateur team last year, has been performing in the outer garden like a veteran.

Calling the Strikes

New York—(CPA)—Big Buzz Arlett may not be major league timber but many teams in the International league today who wish he were. With his home runs and his general heavy hitting, the players have with the pitchers who oppose Buffalo.

In Wednesday's game against Reading the hefty former Philly outfielder slammed out four home runs in four times at bat, knocked in seven tallies, brought his total of circuit smashes to 20 this far this season and tied the record for home runs hit in one game both in the International league and the two major leagues. MARQUETTE WINS TRACK TOURNAMENT

Nine Records Are Broken and Three Tied as 17 Schools Compete

Milwaukee—(AP)—Collegiate Olympic material flashed over the cinders under the floodlights at the Marquette University stadium last night as Marquette won the seventh annual central intercollegiate outdoor track and field meet.

Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette's "midnight express," ran through the dashes to aid his team in collecting 383 points. The University of Wisconsin was second with 33 and Notre Dame third with 234.

A Butler high jumper, Bert Nelson stole the show from Metcalfe by clearing the bar at six feet 7 1/2 inches to break the national intercollegiate mark of six feet 7 1/2 set in 1928 by W. C. Haggar of Texas.

Three central meet records were tied and nine broken as the cream of athletes from 17 midwestern schools showed their wares.

Other teams in the scoring were: Michigan Normal 22; Michigan State 21; Bradley Tech 8; Illinois Normal 8; Butler 5; University of Western State 4; Michigan 3; De Paul 1; and University of Detroit 1.

It was the second time Marquette won the event since the meet was started. Notre Dame captured the victory four times and Michigan state once.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

AN EXHIBITION OF RESTRAINT
The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
10	Pass	54	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

and now many Souths bid either five notrump or six diamonds, and the hand was inevitably doomed to defeat.

Undoubtedly, North's proper bid after his partner's Opening bid, with this hand, is five spades, a bid which is both an invitation and a warning. It clearly pictures the tremendous mass strength in the spade suit, but denies that the holder has a better bid, which would be a Forcing Takeout. Therefore, the hand does not hold a tremendous spade suit and another Ace, because, if East held such a strong trump suit as well as another Ace, he would then make a Forcing Takeout and reach the best bid in the hands gradually. North has pointed the way to South, and South should heed the warning.

TODAY'S POINTER
The safe bidding of Slams is based upon the elimination of the possibility of losing tricks to adversely held honors—not upon the count of playing-tricks, however accurate that count may be in reaching a game contract.

NEW YORK IS GLOOMY OVER TAX MEASURE

Lawrence Finds Great Disappointment Because Sales Tax Was Beaten

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1932, by Post Pub. Co.
New York—Now that the budget has been balanced, New York is not so happy about it. For weeks the demand has been growing that the best thing congress could do would be to balance the budget and quit. But the kind of balancing that the senate has just finished has left in its wake such generalization that it is difficult to calculate the ill effects of something which it had been believed would prove a stimulant to public confidence.

What New York doesn't understand is why congress ignores fundamental economic facts. Thus, for example, if anybody in Washington really believes that the taxes that have just been passed are going to be productive of the revenues estimated, it must be because of a belief in statistics of past years. A tour of the financial and business districts will superficially reveal very little change, but digging beneath the surface one finds the wreckage of fortunes and businesses which the tax collector will never realize upon.

The shrinkage in incomes is so great that some of the richest men in New York city have become borrowers at the bank in order to take care of commitments previously made. Men who were adjudged wealthy have been wiped out in so many instances that it has become almost a common occurrence.

The new taxes have sent a shiver of apprehension through the metropolis. There is no questioning of the necessity of increased taxes, but the query is: Who is going to pay them and what is the effect on the businesses that are to be taxed?

Hoped For Sales Tax
Probably one reason for the discouragement was the conviction, rightly or wrongly founded, that congress would in the end enact a manufacturers' sales tax. This is the biggest disappointment that the people here have suffered. They say now that capital, which is scarce anyhow, will not be put into productive enterprise and that business recovery will be retarded by reason of the inevitable nature of the new taxes. This is one reason why the markets have been weak ever since the budget was balanced. European selling has stopped and buying has begun, but the American holder of securities is reaching for the tax exempt issues or else figuring out ways of absorbing excise taxes in his business so as to adjust sales prices.

If a major surgical operation to impose a series of new tax rates on American business even in normal times but it is much worse now when there is so much despair and lack of morale in economic affairs.

Talk of artificial measures continues. A big bond pool is being formed, with the indirect help of the federal reserve system, so as to restore values of bonds and thus prevent receiverships of institutions that have invested heavily in bonds which have now depreciated. Some announcement is expected any day now of a two billion dollar corporation to buy bonds, and the leading banks are believed to be considering an important participation in the plan.

Congress Is Blamed
There is no doubt that New York is blue. It is downcast and depressed far beyond anything experienced before. It is even in worse mood than it was last December. Congress has not helped but has driven the business and financial community to greater depths by its patchwork taxation. Business is at a standstill and capital for almost any purpose is conspicuous by its absence. The banks are lending money only on good collateral and with safe margins. There is credit for businesses that can turn over their products in 30 days or six months but there is no capital or credit for enterprises that need loans for a year or two, unless their financial operating statement is in excellent shape—and this is true of very few businesses.

The banks are not inclined to lend money or take risks on businesses that are "in the red" unless they can demonstrate conclusively the means of paying back the money within a reasonably short time. With the uncertain future, many business men are unable to predict the course of sales, the resistance to sales being unusually difficult to overcome. The price levels are low but buying power has apparently been impaired to an inconceivable extent.

The metropolis does not present, however, a defeatist psychology as a whole. There is still a lingering hope that governments both here and abroad will rise to the emergency and bring about that co-operation between government and business which is so essential if labor is to be re-employed.

You Can't Marry

by Julia Cleft-Addams

SYNOPSIS: Eddie Townsend wants a home, his wife George wants to keep her job. She intends to work while he recovers from an accident, and has persuaded her cousin Jenny to pretend to be Eddie's wife, because her employer would discharge George if he knew she was married.

Chapter 31
HAGGLING OVER MARRIAGE

"I DO love you," George muttered. It was as though she were protecting them both by saying it.

"Jenny was sure you did," agreed Eddie. He seemed to accept Jenny as an authority on the matter and for once George felt no twinge of jealousy. She was relieved to find him so—so simple. No half-truths ever, with Eddie. Black or white, yes or no; take it or leave it.

"It's simply and solely a matter of money," she hurried on. "You may say that we shan't have very much less, even if you can't fly any more. But supposing that little bit less just turns being hard up into being downright poor? Suppose it means that we can never take any risk to meet any adventure? We wouldn't go on loving, Ed. I've seen big money at close quarters and I know what I can do."

"No. But it can buy freedom."

"Of a kind I need, then."

"What are you trying to tell me, girl?"

"That I love you. That I'll give up my job to make a home for you, but not yet."

"When?"

"When my savings are enough to make the difference between slavery and freedom. I mean, a reasonable freedom, Ed. I'm not thinking any more of dinners and dances, I swear. I'm not. I'm thinking of the kind of life that will keep up in love with each other. I—I want to be kept in love with you, always."

Eddie was looking curiously at her. For all his simplicity, for all his take-it-or-leave-it directness, he was looking at her as though he understood her better than she dared to understand herself.

"What—what is it, Ed dear?"

He roused himself and turned abruptly away.

"It's nothing. I was just thinking about what you said. About what I suppose you'd call your point of view. I'd better be getting along I think."

"Back to this crazy little room of yours?" George laughed shakily. "I don't see why! Jenny can lodge there, if she doesn't want to stay at a hotel, and you can have your room here, as we planned at first. I've squared Gill and—and if people think you married the other Miss Revell, well, Jenny doesn't really mind. It's a very convenient thing for them to think."

She came close to him as he stood with one hand on the door; she slipped her white, strong arms up his shoulders.

"Don't go," she whispered.

His arms went around her and she held her for a moment in the embrace she loved; roughly keeping her against him when she would have moved away, roughly kissed her lips and her closed eyes. She was deaf to the hurrying stammer of the little clock; time was eternity, anyway, and all the old thrill and the old longing were flooding back into her heart.

Then Eddie pushed her away and she saw again the strange, considering look that wasn't a bit like Eddie's.

"I'm going," he said, "and never you mind where. Let's call it Mexico and let's say I shall be there for a year. At the end of the year I'll be back from wherever it is—say, Mexico—and we'll see what all this saving and working of yours has led to. It's what we should have done if I hadn't got that wind-shield and it's what we'll do now."

She had won, all along the line! Or—hadn't she?

"No, but Eddie, we were to have been together here for a week before you went away! That's why I—"

She had been going to say that that was why she had bought clothes and furniture, in her wild extravagance. She changed it to "That's why we got married on Saturday, surely? And we can have as long as we like—the whole year!"

"You don't know me very well, George, do you?"

"Seems not!" (He was really going, apparently; he was staring back at her from the threshold.) "I—I honestly can't grasp why you should object to staying here—you needn't be my guest—oh, Eddie, aren't we actually going to see each other for a year?"

"Yes, I tell Garth Avenue that you married Eddie!" Jenny asks George tomorrow.

"Now you just run off home," he commanded. "I can manage a straight bit of pavement all right; it was the crossing that got me. That was all. You'll have to walk. I'm afraid. Your hearse seems to have trundled on without you."

She inspected him anxiously. He looked better, stronger, in spite of his recent fright; but he didn't look at all happy. Not in the least as she had thought he would look when George was home at last.

"You know George is back?" she asked—and found that he was asking the question of her word by word. Involuntarily, they stopped and stood laughing. "Why aren't you with her?" she asked, when the quaint, companionable moment had passed.

Outstanding Pictures To Be Shown At Movie Houses Next Week

MAYNARD PLAYS IN LEADING ROLE

"The Pocatello Kid" Also Features Star's Trained Horse

Ken Maynard, favorite of western picture fans, will be seen again in his latest drama of the prairie "Pocatello Kid." This new film, which reports from the coast state is more thrilling than any of his previous ones, is showing at the Elite Theatre today and Sunday.

While Ken, of course, has the leading role, "Tarzan," his favorite horse, runs him a close second. The palomino possesses an almost uncanny intelligence and there is almost no trick that he cannot be taught to perform. The big capture is leery of strangers, however, and at a word from his master, will unseat anyone who climbs upon his back.

Others in the film include Marceline Day, Charles King and Richard Cramer.

"RADIO PATROL" IS STORY OF POLICEMEN

Based on an original story by Tom Reed and directed by Edward Cahn, "Radio Patrol," showing for the last time today, at the Appleton Theatre, gets off to a good start and builds steadily right up to the last minute with a lot of forceful, human drama, suspense and action packed into its seven reels.

The story deals with the lives of young men who go through the police rookie school together and find out later in pounding their respective beats, that all of the unpleasant promises of a brusque police sergeant are only too true. Most of the action centers around Robert Armstrong as Bill, Russell Hopton as Pat and Lila Lee as the girl who was won away from Pat by the more romantic Bill.

Armstrong gives his usual dependably snappy performance and Hopton in his first sympathetic screen role gives Armstrong a spirited chase for first acting honors. In her "comeback" film Miss Lee looks the picture of health and fills her role well indeed. June Clyde assumes a well known highly emotional part and Andy Devine, though killed off early in the production, scores some good laughs and makes a decided hit with the audience. Onslow Stevens, a new Universal contract player, Noel Madison and John Lester Johnson, a colored boy, do well with small parts. Sidney Toler as the Wolheimish police sergeant does some of his best work and Harry Woods as the racketeer, Klosky, is outstanding.

PICTURE TO PLAY HERE FOR 5 DAYS

"The Rich Are Always With Us" Stars Ruth Chatterton

Ever since the first announcement that the Appleton Theatre would show Ruth Chatterton's newest starring vehicle, "The Rich Are Always With Us," a first National picture, starting with tonight's midnight show for 5 days, ardent movie fans have been anxiously awaiting the latest effort of the "First Lady of the Screen."

Manager U. R. Anderson advises that in "The Rich Are Always With Us," Miss Chatterton appears as the wealthy member of the wealthy "set," happily married until she discovers her husband "cheating" with a heartless debutante, whom he marries after the divorce which sets them both free. In spite of her love for Julian Tierney, a successful author, portrayed by George Brent, Miss Chatterton fears to marry again, because of her previous painful experience. She has, moreover, a motherly interest in her former husband which time and again nearly disrupts her love for the author. A surprise climax gives the story an added fillip, all the more interesting because of its novelty and surprise.

A large and talented cast assists Miss Chatterton in her greatest triumph. George Brent, the novelist with whom she is in love, is a newcomer. His role definitely establishes him as one of Hollywood's leading men. Feminine fans have at last taken him to their hearts. "Others of the importance" are Bette Davis, John Miljan, Adrienne Dore, John Wray, Max Madison, Robert Warwick, Virginia Hammond, Walter Walker and Burton Churchill, all of whom are noted "portrayers of character."

FREDERIC MARCH PLAYS DUAL ROLE

Frederic March, whose amazing double role in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" is one of the topics of conversation still on the tongues of all movie fans, has a new dual portrayal of more gentle cut as "twin brothers" in the Paramount tale, "Strangers in Love," filmed from the novel, "The Shorn Lamb," and to be headlined at the Elite Theatre, 3 days starting Monday.

March enacts the role of an surprising son who forgets will to deprive a brother of his inheritance, and also the role of the adventuresome vagabond brother who comes into his own after a series of thrilling and romantic episodes.

Kay Francis, Juliette Compton, Stuart Erwin, George Barbier and Lucien Littlefield head the supporting cast.

Chet and his Knights of Harmony at Greenville Pavilion, Sunday night.

RUTH CHATTERTON, who is coming to the Appleton Theatre with tonight's midnight preview for a 5 day run in her first National picture, "The Rich Are Always With Us." The story deals with New York's "smart set" and presents Ruth Chatterton in a different, and what is said to be her most likeable role.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU
By MARY BLAKE
"GEMINI"

If June 5th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 12:35 p. m., from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m., and from 10:30 p. m. to 11:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 10 a. m., and from 3 p. m. to 4:35 p. m.

A comfortable and lazy day is assured for June 5th. Family reunions will be unusually free from discord, and lovers will part with more definite understanding of their affection. A relatively high proportion of accidents is indicated for week-end trippers, so uninsured cars should remain in the garage.

The child born on this June 5th will display great aptitude in its academic life. Parents will be inclined to pamper this precocious young person and unless a firm hand is applied, its disposition will become intolerable to others. More promise than fulfillment is unfortunately indicated.

Born on June 5th, you are extremely independent-minded, but dislike this characteristic in others. In your human relationships, you can only live in harmony with those who amiably submit to your dominance and condescension. You keep your own life a closed book, to even your most intimate friends, but you are curiously interested in the pages of others. You have a kaleidoscopic temperament and your generosity, energy and general demeanor are all subject to the changing of your moods. You are capable of making great sacrifices for other people, but the conscience of well-doing is not ample reward.

In business matters you are very honest and conscientious, and worry until all obligations are met. In finances, you will often run up against almost hopeless problems, but will usually be saved at the last moment through unexpected quarters. Your success will usually come when least expected. Avoid partners, ships! You are a born warrior, and will always find something about which to fret. Most of your illnesses will be of a neuroathenic type. Slimming diets should be avoided, and energy-giving foods should not be scorned.

No one knows how to be more affable and courteous than you, or, on the other hand, more abrupt and brusque. It takes little to make you stand on your dignity. In your home you display great taste and judgment.

Successful People Born on June 5th:

- 1-Bushrod Washington, first president of American Colonization Society.
- 2-Lyman Spaulding, physician, introduced vaccination.
- 3-Franklin W. Calkins, author.
- 4-Franklin Farzham, film actor.
- 5-George T. Angell, founder Massachusetts Society of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

"GEMINI"

If June 6th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 5:49 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 3:30 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 9:45 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:33 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.

June 6th is indicated to be a propitious day, astrologically, for handling weighty matters both in and outside the home. Hands and brains both will be in good working form, and it would be a good time to finish up "left over" jobs. Cupid appears to be very busy setting middle-aged people.

The child born on this June 6th will possess average ability. Many of its opportunities through life will be lost through irresolution. It should qualify for some scientific or professional career, in which intellectual is more important than practical business ability. Friendship

EXPOSE NIGHT LIFE IN MOTION PICTURE

"Night World" Is to Be Shown Two Days at Appleton Theatre

What goes on behind the gay music and carefree festivity of Broadway's night clubs? What takes place behind the silken drapes and softened lights?

Theatergoers will find the dramatic answer in "Night World," Universal's swift moving picture of romance and nocturnal adventure on Broadway which opens an engagement next Fri. and Sat. at the Appleton Theatre. Two New York writers, Allen Rivkin and P. J. Wolfson, who wrote "Bodies Are Dust," wrote this story and a New York director, Hobart Henley, put it on the screen.

The absorbing story is that of a single night's happenings in a crowded supper club, which involve a disillusioned young millionaire, seeking forgetfulness. A sympathetic chorus girl, knowing his story, attempts to comfort him, and in so doing discovers that love is the cure. However, at this point, both become enmeshed in a series of exciting situations resulting from the underworld activities of the proprietor and his scheming mate. Things move fast, bringing the lovers to what appears to be a desperate impasse, and here comes the surprise which is said to make "Night World" one of the most thrilling pictures displayed for a long time in Appleton.

Lew Ayres, the accomplished screen actor who has won well-merited fame, is starred in "Night World," with Mae Clarke in the leading role of the night club entertainer. Boris Karloff of "Frankenstein" is seen in an important part, and Dorothy Revier, Russell Hopton, Dorothy Peterson, Clarence Muse, Bert Roach, Hedda Hopper, Florence Lake and other film favorites round out the large cast.

ACTRESS ENACTS ROLE THAT PROVES THEORY

The flair for vivacity and emotional spirit which Nancy Carroll first portrayed for the delectation of film fans of the nation in "Abie's Irish Rose" is again one of the foremost qualities of her performance in "Wayward," the Paramount picture which comes to the Elite Theatre next Thursday and Friday.

The fire and flash of "The Dance of Life," the romantic fever of "Stolen Heaven" and "Devil's Holiday" are all brought into a symphonic union of stirring dramatics for her characterization of the lovely and well-loved wife of Richard Arlen in this latest picture, co-starring Pauline Frederick.

FLASHES OF LIFE

Chicago — How to manufacture gold on the back stoop is explained by Prof. William D. Harkins of the University of Chicago. To the mercury in the back door thermometer, add a pinch of electrons. In theory it's fine, but alas there's a catch in it. In practice the electrons refuse to merge with mercury.

New York — What's this? Elbow grease in a workshop? After visiting one and finding the occupants twirling thumbs, Magistrate Joseph Goldstein decided "a policy of 'work, no eat.'" So Charles Monsolino, cabinet maker, who failed to work over the stated sum to his wife, must make cabinets while in durance to support her.

Washington — It's crowded civilization, not drafts, that causes colds, new evidence indicates. Dr. Wilson G. Smille of Harvard, told about the folks in Spitzbergen up beyond the Arctic circle. Coal miners there don't have colds in the winter although they walk from hot barracks across a glacier. The first ship to arrive in the spring brings an epidemic of colds.

Scene From New Garbo Picture

Set Up Complete Town As Picture Is Being Filmed

BY JESSIE HENDERSON

Hollywood — (CPA) — A town complete with everything from a barber shop full of barbers to a conservatory full of tropical foliage, plus whatever else is needed for a two months residence in the south seas is running full blast today at a lonely point on Catalina island.

The town which sprang up in 30 days and will vanish in 60 more was built on the Catalina isthmus by United Artists Studios for the picture "Rain."

In order to make this picture without the interruption of journeymen to and from Hollywood the studio has established an entire move plant at the location and erected a village of tents around it.

Joan Crawford, who has the role of "Sadie Thompson" will remain at the isthmus with her company until the final scene is done. Several acres are covered by the indoor and outdoor settings. A regiment of workmen transplanted trees and vines to create the proper South sea atmosphere and a big hot-house keeps other trees and vines in reserve for use when necessary.

There's a carpenter shop, a wardrobe department for the hundreds of players, a blacksmith shop, a paint shop and an electrical shop. There's a rain making apparatus, a hospital and first aid station, a makeup department, a sound reproduction and recording department and a film cutting room. There are even projection rooms where the scenes taken during the day may be thrown on the screen each night.

Most of the actors are living in tents with a few of the principals quartered at what was once a private residence on a nearby hilltop.

JACKIE COOPER IN APPEALING STORY

Appears Today at Fox Theatre in Outstanding Picture

In one of the most appealing stories ever brought to the screen, young Jackie Cooper, outshines any of his previous performances in "When a Feller Needs a Friend," now showing at the Fox Theatre today only.

A boy crippled since birth who fights to overcome his handicap provides a characterization for Jackie that has very strong heart appeal. The youngster more than justifies the praise that has been given to his ability. Through his emotional interpretation of the role he establishes himself as one of the most accomplished players on the screen regardless of age.

Charles "Chic" Sale gives another one of his inimitable portrayals of "old men." His Uncle Jonas is one of the most human and lovable characters he has ever attempted. When he and Jackie get together in an attempt to have some "real fun" their hilarious adventures are a treat for the audience.

The locale of the story is in a mid-Western town at the home of Tom Randall, moderately successful lawyer. The Randalls, played with real sympathy by Ralph Graves and Dorothy Peterson, are united in anxious solicitation over the welfare of their crippled son, Limpy. Their over-anxious meddling of the boy is the cause of difficulties that are a foundation for the action in the production.

The officers and crews of two ships, a large steamer and a four masted schooner forming part of the atmosphere, are eating and sleeping aboard their vessels.

Among the highly important items are the electrical shop and the barber shop. Enough electricity is used daily in lighting the big sets and in furnishing power to brighten the homes and buildings in a city several thousand strong. As for the barber shop it will crop the hair of the male actors every three days. It takes two months to make the picture but the plot occupies considerably less than a week and it would be not so good if for example William Gargan, who plays the hero, started in as a close cropped marine and ended as a long haired poet.

SUPERB ROLE FOR GLAMOROUS GARBO

Brilliant Actress Is Cafe Singer in "As You Desire Me"

NOTE — Fox Theatre at the midnight show tonight. Come before 5 o'clock and see two features for the price of one admission.

Never before has Greta Garbo achieved so emotional and convincing a performance as in "As You Desire Me," her new Metro-Goldwyn Mayer film which is at the Fox Theatre for 3 big days, Sun. Mon. and Tues.

In the beginning of the story, Miss Garbo appears in a silver wig, an exotic creature, much besought by the amorous night-lifers in gay Budapest. From this she undergoes self-activated metamorphosis as the wife of Count Bruno, the scene in which she confronts her accusers, relatives suspicious of her duplicity, and confronts them with intimate facts that point to the genuineness of her claims, is the high mark of the film. To this reviewer, it is the finest single scene Miss Garbo has played.

Melvyn Douglas Scores
Melvyn Douglas plays opposite Miss Garbo as the brooding nobleman who accepts her as his wife, even after he knows of her impersonation. Douglas' performance is thorough and convincing. Erich Von Stroheim heads the supporting cast as the principal menace and others featured include Owen Moore, Hedda Hopper, Radhaa Gidano, Warburton Goble, Albert Conni, William Ricciardi and Roland Varno.

RESTORES KEY

Cologne — Twenty-one years ago the key to the crypt of Cologne Cathedral disappeared. It has just been returned by Mayor H. Lauder, London property agent, who confessed to taking the key when he visited the crypt in 1911. He explained that he had the youthful desire for a souvenir of the place and had picked up the key, not knowing that he was doing wrong.

New York —A— A further substantial restoration of quoted values brought the week in the securities market to a close today.

Stocks pushed up 1 to more than 4 points for many of the leaders and bonds scored impressive advances for the second successive day.

Stocks closed near their best levels, making no yield in the late dealings of the yesterday. Late profit taking was not abundant.

General tone was strong. The upward for the short session was unusual.

Formation of the American Securities Investing Corp., officially announced after the close of yesterday's trading, was still the dominant stock market influence in the market although the corporation has not yet started operations. Furthermore, there was nothing to dampen the high hopes of prompt enactment of the federal taxation measure.

Rail shares forged rapidly ahead in sympathy with the improvement in railroad bonds, and such recently depressed groups as the utilities, tobacco, foods and chemicals made notable progress.

For a number of issues, the reaction found the market lows were striking, amounting to from 10 to 20 per cent of their value.

Issues closing about 2 to 4 points higher included Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, New York Central, Norfolk and Western, New Haven, U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Peoria Gas, Public Service of N. J., American Tobacco and Liggett and Myers Class "B" shares, National Cash Register, Wrigley, Woolworth, Case, Hershey, Auburn, Macy and others.

There were numerous, embracing General Electric, Westinghouse, Bethlehem, Southern Pacific, United Gas Industries, American Lumber, and the National Improvement, Union Carbide, and others. The O's and C's were about the only groups failing to make notable progress.

The weekend business and trading was very dull or a negative character, and the markets were dependent for rallying power upon the belief that fundamental conditions were being improved, what with or without support for the investment market, and renewed determination of the federal government to put its financial affairs in shape. Most reports from the steel industry indicated that little improvement was in sight, and some gains in retail trade were noted in weekend reviews, however.

Commodity prices, which had been seen to rise in the week, evidenced a substantial improvement, closing with net gains of 55 cents to $1.25 a ton. Bar silver was up a fraction, but the dollar remained at a disadvantage against some the leading continental gold currencies in the fore exchange markets. The Dutch florin and the Swiss franc rose more than a point, and the French franc was just a shade higher. Sterling was about steady.

Visions of old Madrid — bull-fights, senoritas, mantillas — are conjured up in our minds by Spanish-type awnings. With their spearhead fixtures and brilliant-striped fabrics, they convey perfectly the atmosphere of that picturesque country.

If your house is adaptable to Spanish-type awnings, we'll be glad to install them. Or if some other type is better, we'll suggest it. Give us the opportunity to submit an awning plan for your home. There's no obligation — get in touch with us now.
